Long before the coming of the white man the Little Scioto was the scene of many Indian expeditions, since Nature had provided a direct route from the Northern Lakes to the Ohio River. Historians believe that the Indians ascended the Sandusky to the mouth of the Little Sandusky, a point about three and a half miles north of the north line of Marion County, thence up that tributary five miles to a portage, across the portage to the Little Scioto, down that stream to the Scioto, and onward to the Ohio, which means "beautiful river."

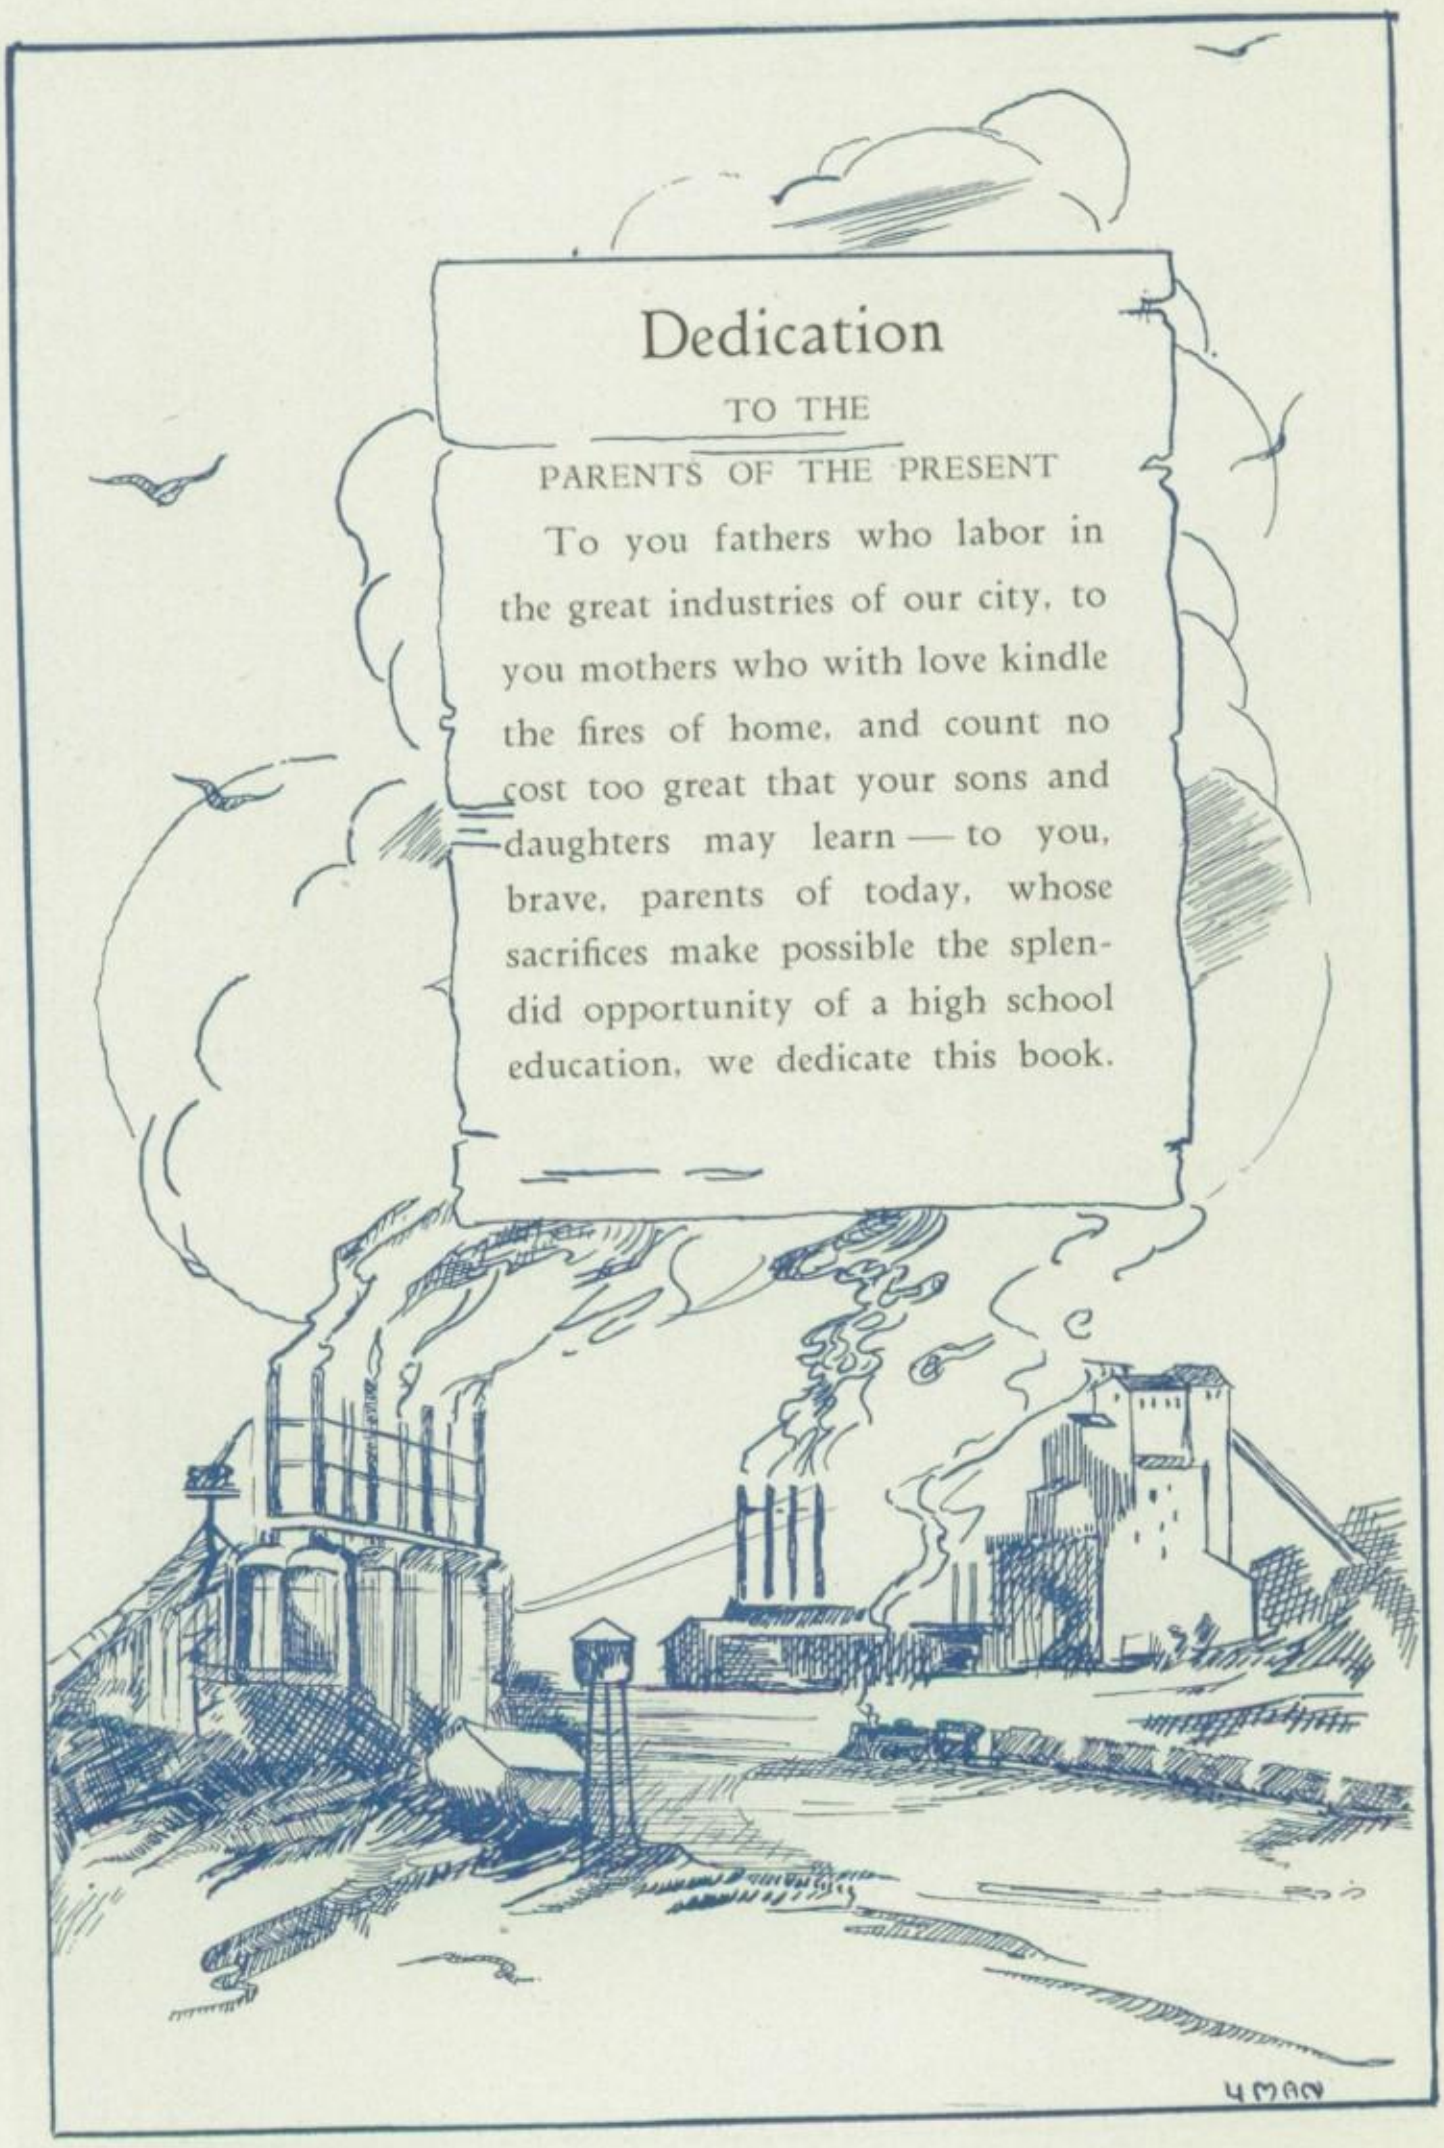
Dedication

TO THE

PIONEERS OF THE PAST

To you who traversed the unknown distances in your covered wagons, faced the perils of sudden Indian attacks, heard the wolves howling in the wildnerness, and built your rude cabins from the forest trees—to you, brave pioneer spirits, whose sacrifices made possible the present glory, we dedicate this book.



Dedication

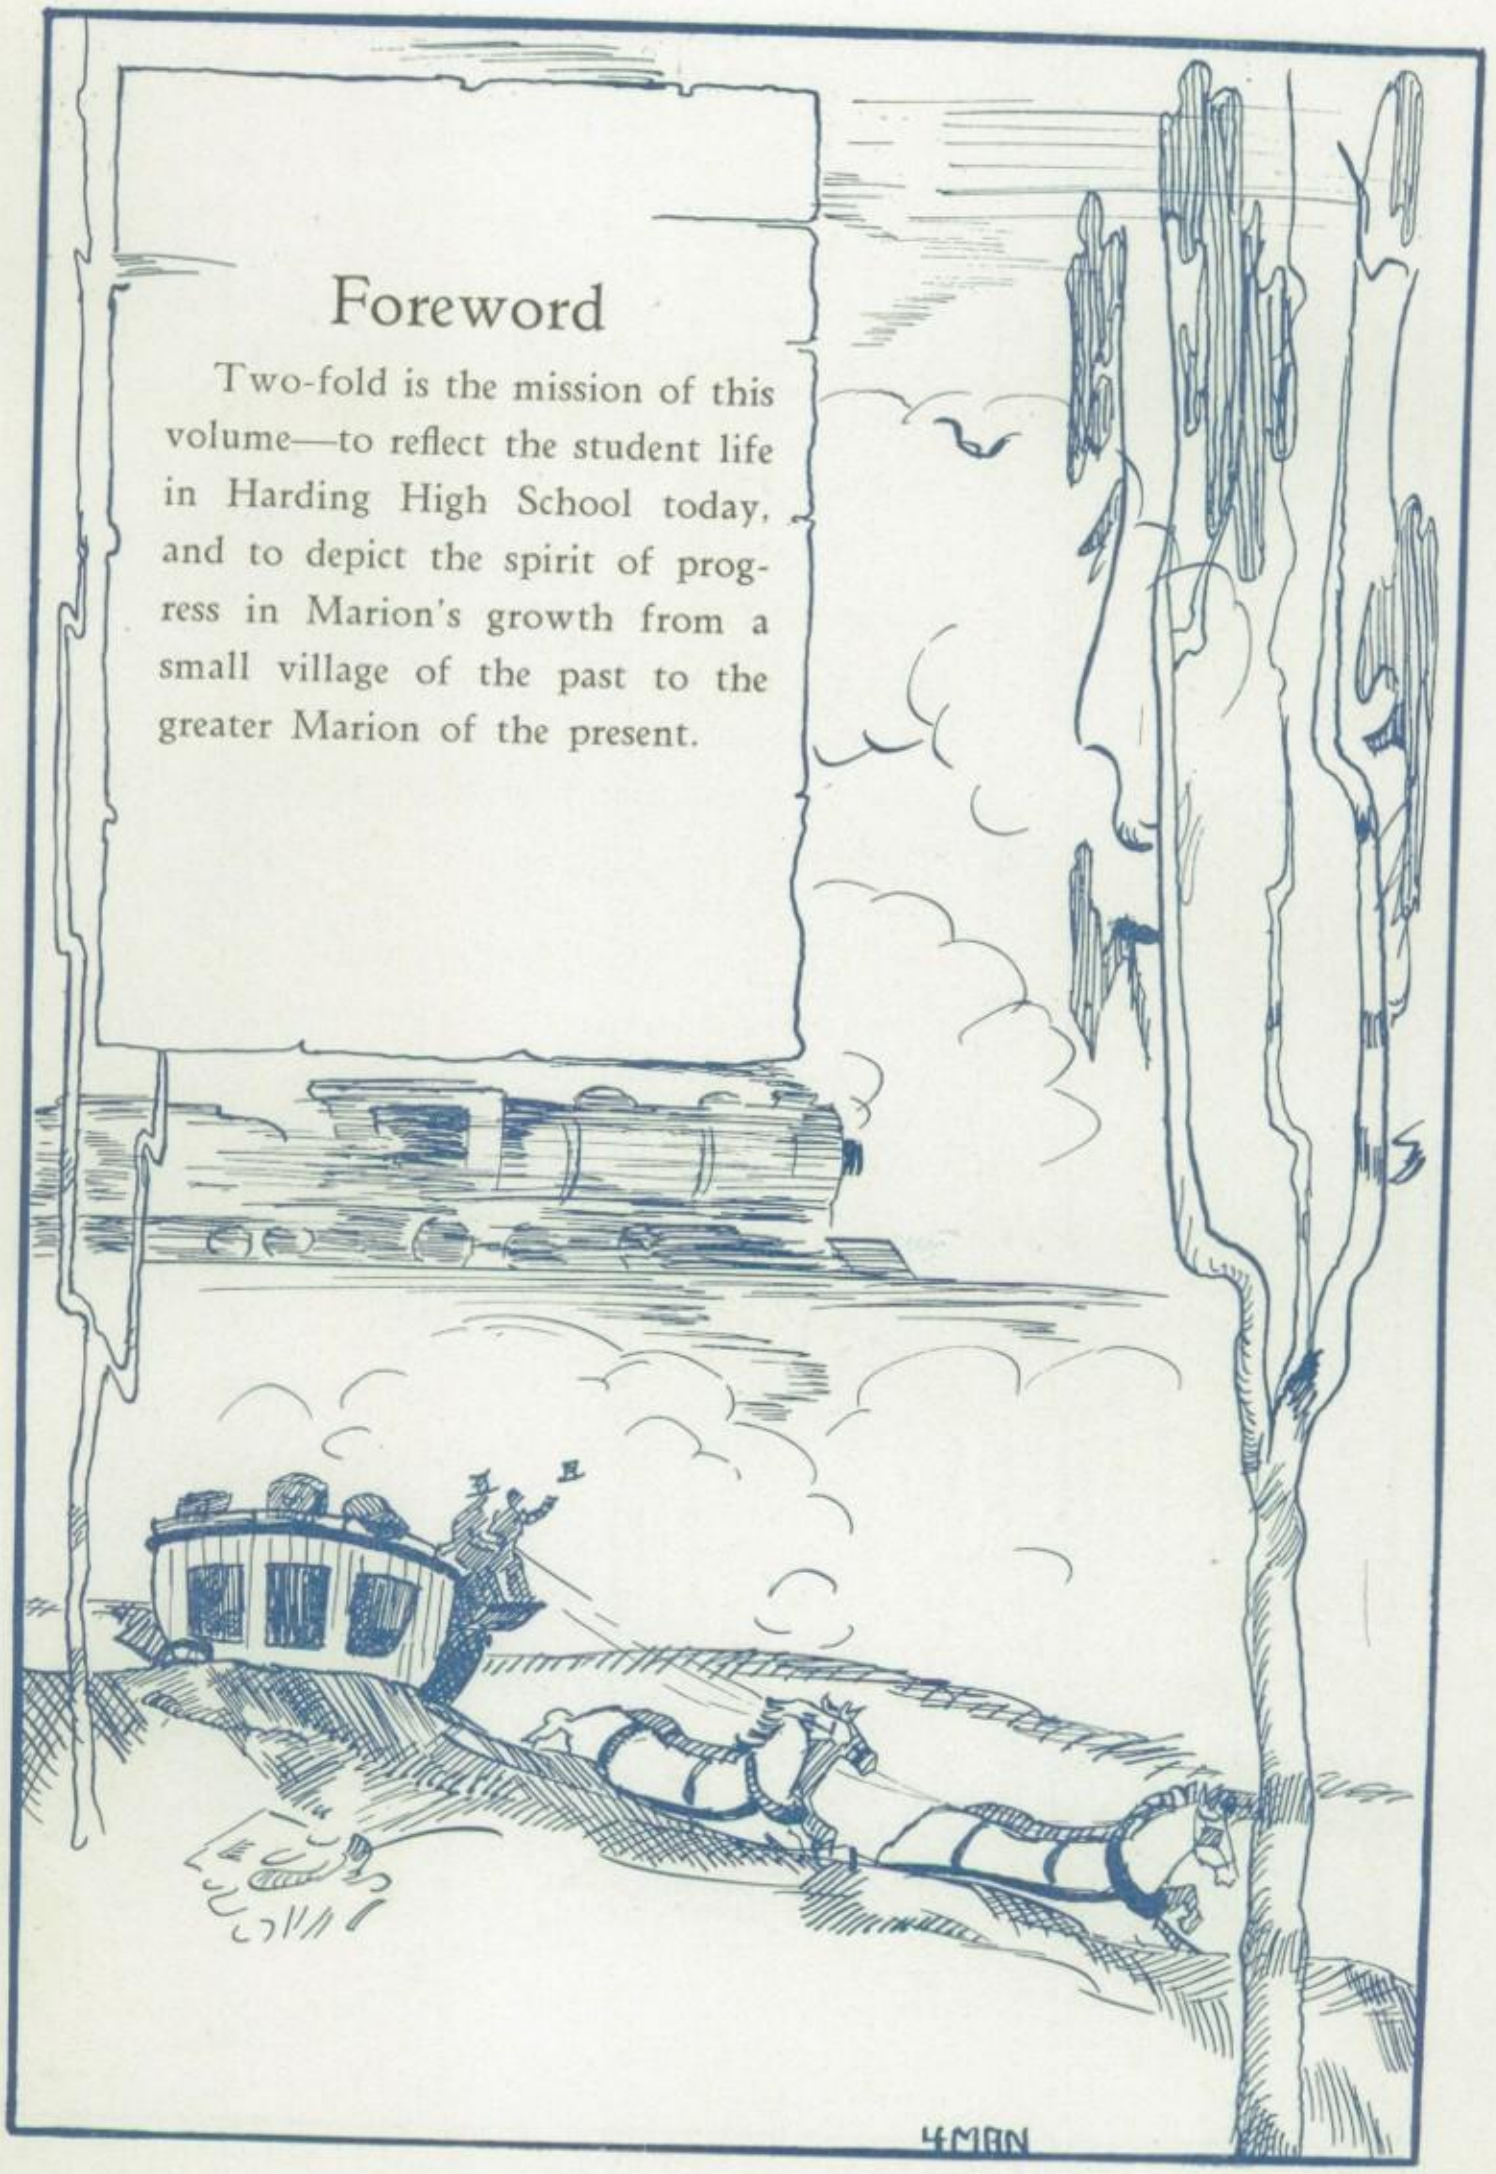
TO THE

PARENTS OF THE PRESENT

To you fathers who labor in the great industries of our city, to you mothers who with love kindle the fires of home, and count no cost too great that your sons and daughters may learn — to you, brave, parents of today, whose sacrifices make possible the splendid opportunity of a high school education, we dedicate this book.

Foreword

Two-fold is the mission of this volume—to reflect the student life in Harding High School today, and to depict the spirit of progress in Marion's growth from a small village of the past to the greater Marion of the present.

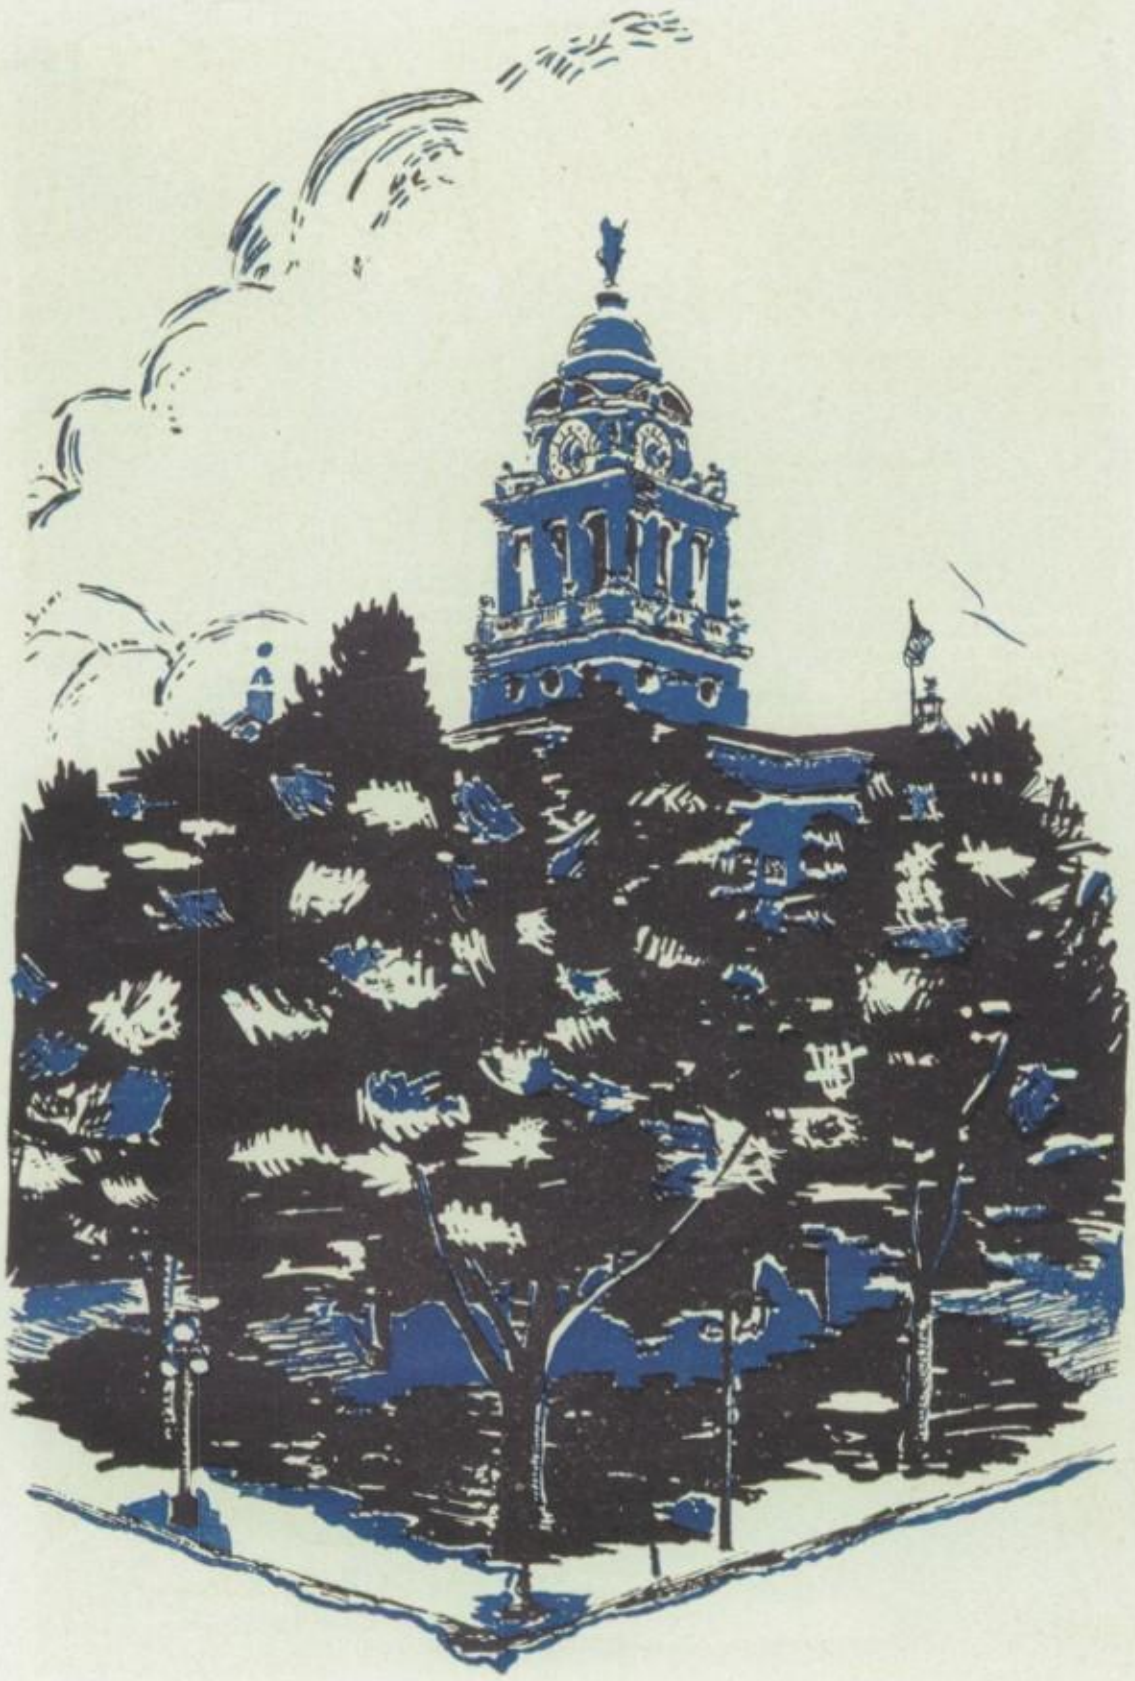


The School

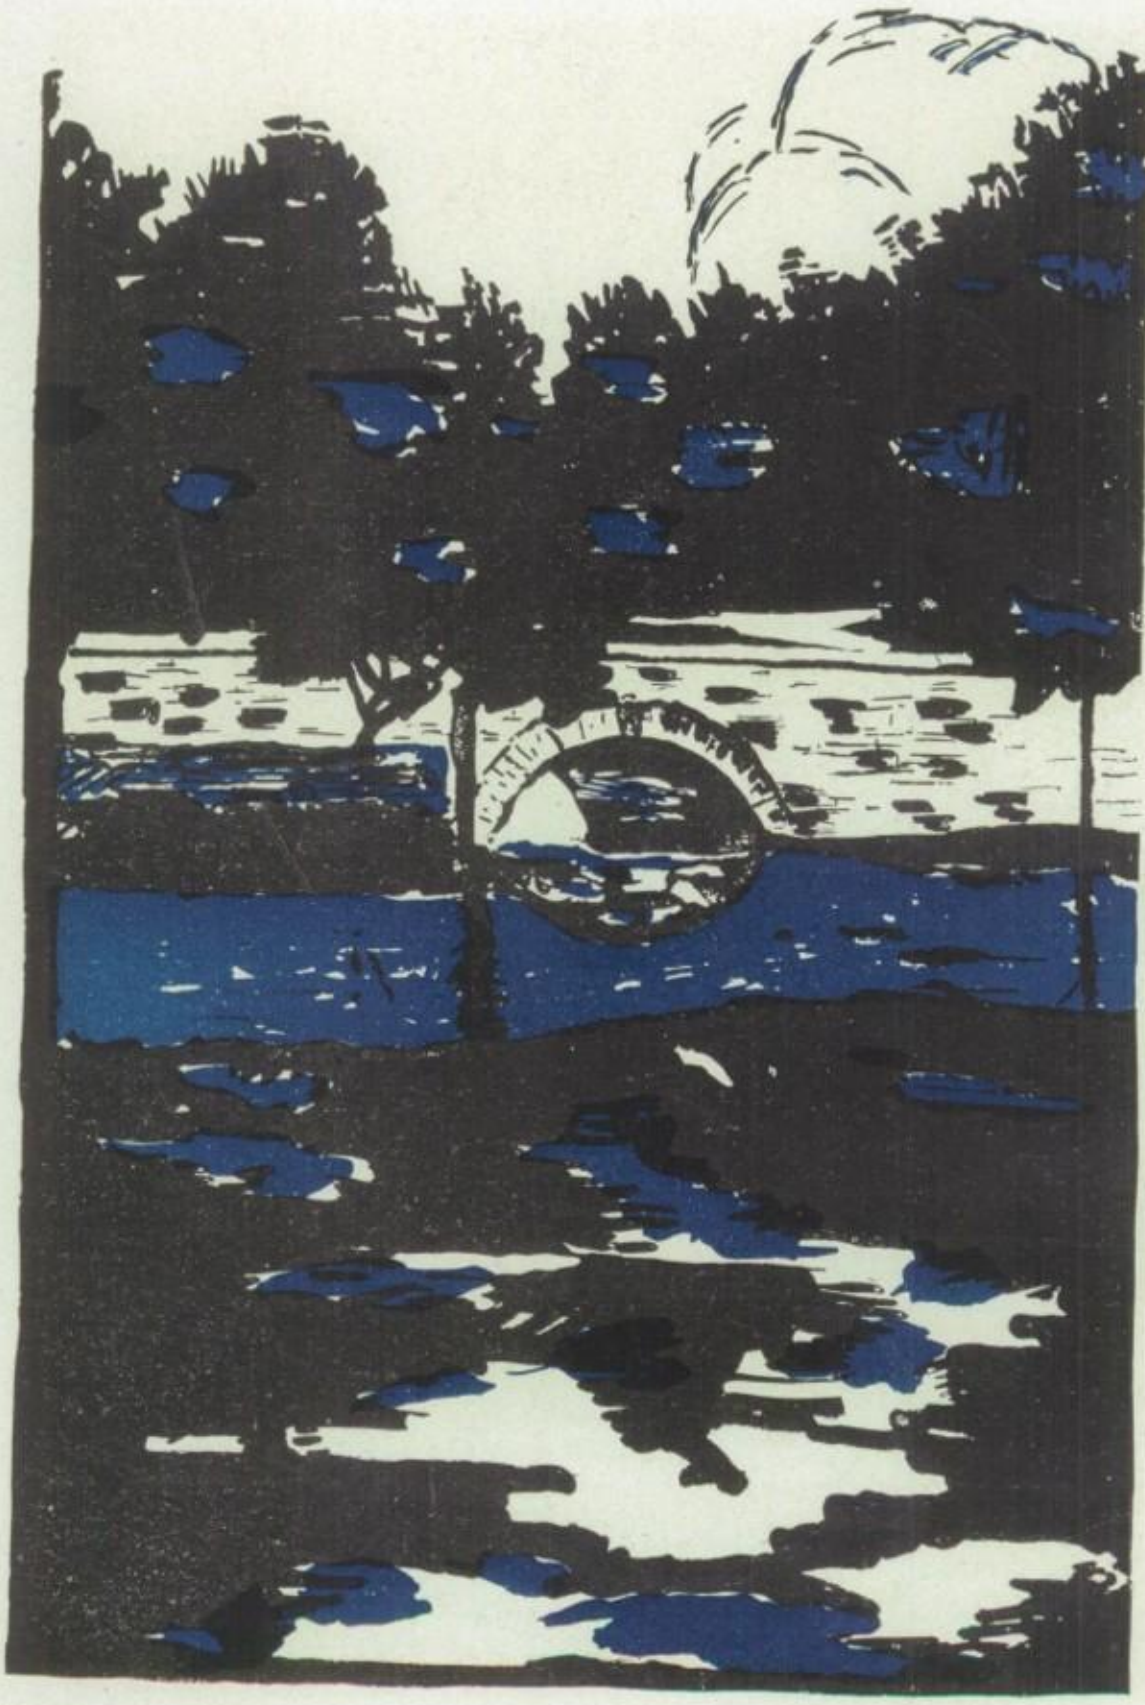
ON July 4, 1824, at a session of the Board of County Commissioners, the Board determined upon the building by subscription of "A House in the town of Marion for the use of a Court, School, and Meeting House." A brick building was therefore erected on the northwest corner of the original town plat, some distance back from Prospect Street. Today Marion has 13 grade buildings, in addition to Central Junior High School, Vernon Heights, and Harding High School.

Portal to the realm of learning,
And perhaps your children's children,
Entering will see new visions
In a grander Harding High School.

Leaves that whisper in the maples,
You could tell us many stories
Of the hundreds that beneath you
Stood to hear a great man speaking.



Tow'ring high above the city,
Justice holds aloft her balance;
Blind, she weighs the good and evil,
All "Pro bono publico."



Deep within your depths you treasure
Fleecy clouds, the wealth of day time;
But at night you play the spendthrift,
Moonlight shimmering everywhere.

June brings memories of this setting,
Calls to mind the pride of parents,
Calls to mind the dreams of Seniors,
Sad and joyful at Commencement.

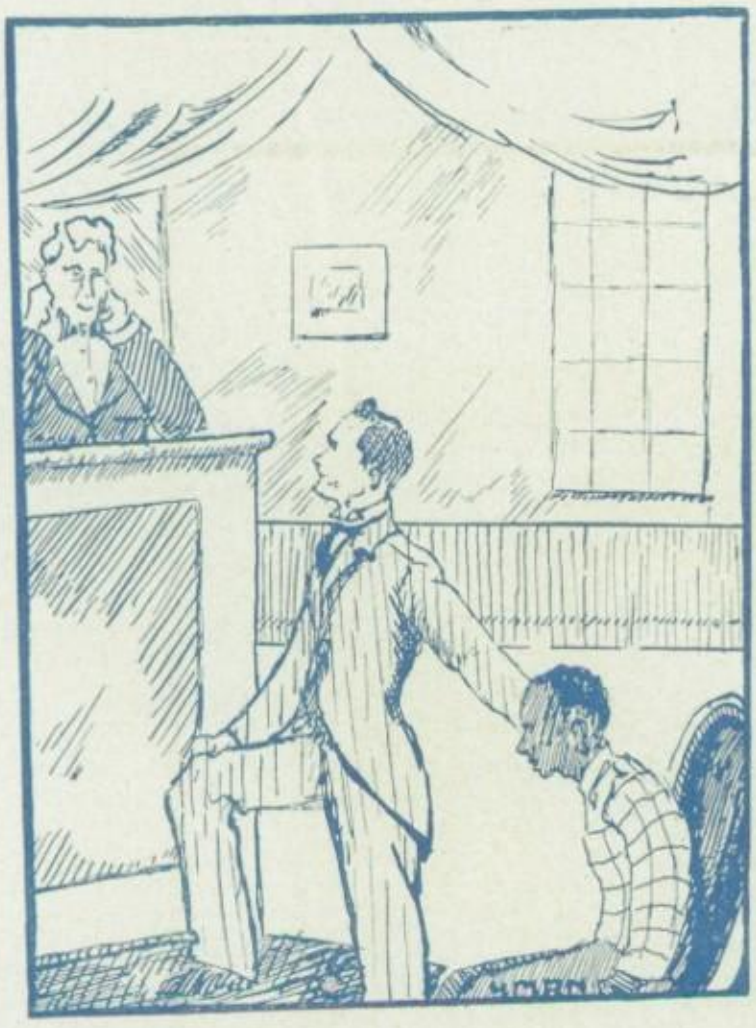
In Memoriam

HELEN McDERMOTT

DIED, APRIL 24, 1925

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea.



Classes

THE most memorable trial which took place in Marion County was one involving the liberty of Black Bill, a runaway slave, who came to Marion in 1838, and endeared himself to the villagers by his industry as a barber and by his ability to play the banjo. Black Bill was ably defended and was declared free. When his alleged owners seized him and hid him in an office, the excited crowd demanded justice and the negro. Black Bill later escaped to Canada. Today the same opportunity for equal rights and justice is manifested in the high school classes.

Senior Class History

Behold, the Class of '25 that originated in September, 1921. As "Freshies" we were placed in Junior High, so, instead of becoming the subject for the torments of the upper classmen at Harding High, we reigned supreme in our own realm.

At Central Junior the officers elected were: President, Raymond Cookston; Vice President, Gene Eva Roberts; Secretary, John Bartram; Treasurer, Mildred Kiehl.

While at Vernon Heights the officers were: President, Dwight Foreman; Vice President, Wallace Schneider; Secretary, Mary Key; Treasurer, Opal Morral.

This year the boys and girls were separated in classes. We were organized into sections, alphabetically, each section electing officers.

In our Sophomore year we were admitted to Harding High. Our class was somewhat diminished, but we had a large majority over the Juniors and Seniors. We were assigned to the East Hall.

Our class officers were: President, Wendall Fidler; Vice President, Nannette Newby; Secretary, Ruth Ritzhaupt; Treasurer, Raymond Cookston.

We were well represented in debate, varsity football and basket ball. We closed the year with a social, which, indeed, was a success.

Our Junior year was a year of great importance and responsibility.

This year we elected: President, Warren Ballentine; Vice President, John Bartram; Secretary, Mary Key; Treasurer, Dwight Foreman.

We again sent representatives to basket ball, football and debate. This year the Junior girls were Interclass Basket Ball champs. We were represented in triangle debate by Della

Larson. The Quiver Staff, for our Senior year, was elected and put out the last three issues of the Junior year. The Lecture Course Committee was appointed and the annual lecture course was chosen. The committee was: Warren Ballentine, chairman; Wendall Fidler, Ruth Ritzhaupt and Alston Morrison.

We had a Hallowe'en social, but by far the most successful event of the year was the Junior-Senior Banquet. This social event speaks for our Junior ability.

Then came the climax of our High School career, and also the addition of much dignity and importance, for we were Seniors.

The class officers were: President, Warren Ballantine; Vice President, Walter Sage; Secretary, John Bartram; Treasurer, Alston Morrison.

Our attention was first centered on the Quiver Junior. We made it a larger paper, issued it weekly and were admitted to the Central Interscholastic Press Association, a great honor for a high school paper. This accomplished, we next turned to the Lecture Course. This was one of the outstanding events of the year. The course contained five numbers from the Redpath Lyceum Bureau.

The first number was the Irene Stolofsky Company. Miss Stolofsky is a violinist of extraordinary ability.

The second number was Jess Pugh, humorist, who entertained with both humorous and serious selections.

"Smilin' Through," by Allen Langdon Martin, was the third number presented. This number was greatly appreciated.

One of the distinctive features was the fourth number. The Russian Cathedral Quartet. These singers delighted their audience for the music was beautiful and unusual.

The last number was William Rainey Bennett, Lecturer. His subject was: "The Man Who Can."

The course as a whole was a decided success, netting the Senior class four hundred dollars.

We ordered our rings and pins at the beginning of the second semester. A standard seal for Harding High was selected by the class and approved by the Juniors and Sophomores.

Everything came so rapidly that the last semester was soon under way. Then, in quick succession came the Gymnasium Demonstration, the final exams, Class Day, Commencement Sermon, and finally Commencement.

The end of a successful and happy school career is here and with sincerity we extend our thanks and appreciation to the faculty for the encouragement and aid given us. With great reluctance we leave our Alma Mater and go to take our place with the Alumni.

Ye Old Calendar

FROM THE STYLE OF SAMUEL SEWELL

Do this day take my pen in hand to record the doings and happenings for the school year 1925 A. D.

SEPTEMBER

1—School did start with a large and sundry attendance. Sophomores did have a terrible time getting around.
23—Election was held by Seniors. Honorable Warren Ballentine was elected President; Walter Sage, Vice President; Alston Morrison, Treasurer, and John Bartram, Secretary, and Dorothy Boyer, Cheer Leaderess.
26—Seniors did have magnificent pep rally preceding Fremont game.
27—Harding was downed by Fremont aggression 18 to 2.
29—Had my locker key given me.

OCTOBER

4—Did get beat in a game with Galion; ours was nothing, theirs was 19.
30—Gym was filled with Seniors for Hallowe'en social.

NOVEMBER

6—Irene Stolofsky Co. was here. First number Senior Lecture Course.
8—Were beaten by Mansfield, 6 to 0.
18—Second number Senior Lecture Course. Jess Pugh, humorist. He was strangely funny.
22—Was disappointed today at Fostoria—23 to 6. Friend Dick and Gene tried vainly to reach Fostoria in their coach. Too bad the road was lost.
26—Entertained by A-M Seniors in Thanksgiving program.

DECEMBER

3—Learned that George Jonnson was to lead the grid warriors for coming year.
4—Did go to see "Smilin' Through" the third number of the lecture course. Ruby Craner used two kerchiefs, her own and Ed's.
12—Marysville did endeavor to beat us, but we received 21 and they 19.
16—Comic Opera presented by H. H. S. Glee Club. Dick Francis admits his success.
17—Christmas issue of Quiver Junior, did get abundance of amusement.
19—Game of basket ball, vicious sport, played with Alumni. Harding won, 25 to 18.
19—We did get excused from school for two weeks' vacation.
28—Water pipes did burst and dampen the school, including the spirits of the janitors.

JANUARY

5—Back to academy of knowledge again.
7—Press Club was organized. Very nice and interesting club.
7—Did go to Lecture Course. Heard beautiful music by Russian Cathedral Quartet.
10—Time limit for our New Year resolutions. One and all of we Seniors revert back to our bad habits.
11—Helen Shoots did have her first date with Mr. Hubbard and tried vainly to keep it a secret.
10—A game of magnanimous interest. Did beat Huntington, West Virginia. Ours was 29, theirs was 28.
16—Won our first league game when we approached, met and overcame Mansfield 34 to 17. Thelma was there with John Jehovah jereh!
21, 22, 23—Saw much misery and suffered untold agony in mid-year trials.
23—To my intense chagrin saw Harding lose to Bucyrus five. Score 19 to 28. Also, Press Club did functionate for the first time.
29—Did cause a great stir in assembly when Congressman Bede spoke to us.

FEBRUARY

4—The illustrious William Rainey Bennett came to Marion to lecture on "The Man Who Can." Friend Bennett's address was very much appreciated.
5—Friend Virginia Lott did get lonesome. Mr. Robert left.
6—An intensely interesting game. Harding 31, Galion 21.
13—Did manage to spend the fateful Friday the thirteenth without any fatalities or mishaps; also, did crush the valiant Delaware team 24 to 21.
13—A remarkably momentous day for Seniors. Their rings and pins were ordered.
14—Senior girls were wreathed in smiles and maidenly blushes were featured as Saint Valentine danced lightly through the corridors.
15—Harling Spring and Mildred Houtz appeared in church together.
20—Did derive enjoyment from a successful Quiver Carnival held in our High School building. A huge event for so small a city.
22-28—"Good English" was available from every teacher this week. Seniors were particularly careful in their verbal contention.
27—Did overcome the Knights of Ashland 32 to 26, and thus did win championship.

MARCH

1—Walter Sage did flourish with a member of the Bush family.
4—Did hear inaugural address of President Coolidge by radio in Assembly. Was due to courtesy of United Electric Supply Company.
6—Did squelch our opponents for our first round in the District Tournament.
7—Again! Did win another round at tournament by beating Columbus West 24 to 16.
8—Friend Mildred and Willard quit going steady.
17—Lost our chance for championship of tourney by losing to East High, Columbus, 23 to 17.
26—Seniors did win their first title as Interclass Champions.
27—Alas! Our agony did cease for 216 hours.

APRIL

2—Ruth Ritzhaupt did celebrate her birthday. Ted was good to her.
6—School did start on the last lap of the year with 39 days more school.
10—Did stage our second debate of the year with Bucyrus at Marion, and Ashland at Ashland.
15—Afore mentioned banquet given by 3 T's Club for S. O. E.'s Club did come off. No men invited.
26—Musical.

MAY

1—Press Club did hold their first social.
8—Seniors held annual party with plenty of fun and nourishment.
20—Did stage the annual Senior play "Charm School" with much success.
29—Junior-Senior Banquet.
31—Commencement Sermon.

JUNE

4—Class Day with caps and gowns to be worn.
5—Commencement.
6—Did join the Alumni of Harding High.

Junior Class History

Our class began the first year at Harding High by electing the following officers to pilot us through our dangerous Sophomore year: Albert Linscott, President; Doris Davis, Vice President; Elizabeth Hulse, Secretary, and Herman Ruhl, Treasurer.

We won the Interclass Basket Ball Championship and were represented on the Varsity Basket Ball Squad by Geissler and Linscott.

Thus ended our first year at Harding High. Early in the second year we embarked on a new sea. When we came to port we found it to be the West Hall. We immediately organized—electing the following officers: James Williams, President; John Kennedy, Vice President; Mary Cook, Secretary, and Guy Stoltz, Treasurer.

We were represented on the Football Team by Doubly, Cunningham, Midlam, Miller, Jonnson and Strasburg.

We were represented on the Basket Ball court by Geissler, Linscott, Jonsson, and Key.

Our Junior year came happily to an end, yet we were saddened by a sudden thought—the loss of our friends and advisors, the Seniors. The burden of the school now is ours. With renewed pep we close another year.

Sophomore Class History

According to custom, we came from Vernon Heights and Central Junior High thronging the halls of Harding 350 strong, bereft of all knowledge, but having dreams.

We began our first year in this long contemplated "source of the great" by electing Joe Drake, President; Martha Linscott Vice President; Lucille Hunt, Secretary, and Charls Merkel, Treasurer, to guide us in the straight and narrow path of knowledge.

In September when the call came to arms on the football field, we responded loyally with John O'Connell, Nicholas Bader, Carrol Born, Raymond Jennings, and Frances McElroy, establishing for us an unrivaled reputation for Sophomores.

Later, in the basket ball season, we were not represented on the varsity team, but Carrol Born, Vaughn Schertzer, Benjamin Gilmore, and Raymond Jennings played on the reserves.

In March we discovered unknown orators in our midst when among many competitors Mary Alice Neal and Joseph Rinnert distinguished themselves on the varsity debate team.

We made our debut in society at the Hallowe'en Social held in the gymnasium, where everyone put aside their aspirations to the realms of knowledge and a good time was had by all.

We feel well encouraged by our entrance into Harding High, and place unlimited confidence in "well begun is half done."

Vocational Class

The Vocational Class of Harding High began this year by electing the following officers for the ensuing year: Frank Drake, President; Chester Hanover, Vice President; Paul Reimer, Secretary, and Paul Spath, Treasurer.

Public school education has long since recognized the necessity for preparing the youth of the land not only for the professions, but also for many other equally fundamental vocations and trades. This fact is recognized in Marion by the creation of the manual training, domestic science, and commercial courses, as well as by the creation of our very successful vocational course.

The vocational department of the Harding High School is completing its fourth year, and we can look back with pride upon the things it has accomplished upon a constructive basis both theoretically and practically, and leads most cities of its size in the State of Ohio.

The purpose and aim of this department is to enable the student who is more practically inclined to get the industrial viewpoint by doing the things that industry is already doing. They therefore are a part of the industrial program of life, and are not forced to spend valuable time preparing themselves for the work they wish to follow after graduation.

The shop work of this course is planned so as to take into consideration the varying abilities of the pupils. The instructor is in position to set up objectives that make special appeal to individual pupils by reason of years of intimate contact with the many phases of industry. Proper adjustment of objectives to individual abilities insures pupil interest and greater efficiency. The splendid records made by vocational boys in local industries give evidence of this interest and thoroughness.

The building and operation of radio sets has added to the vocational program during the past year. Practical knowledge of design and construction was given by building, tearing down, and rebuilding sets. This work has added to the practical value of the course, as well as to the interest.

The State Department has approved the work of the instructors, C. H. Rensch, L. E. Walters, and the co-ordinator L. H. Rieker, as being unexcelled anywhere in the State, and the development of the boys in the past and present leaves no doubt as to the part this department is playing in our general scheme of education.

Vernon Heights Freshmen Class History

Soon after school opened the Freshman class of Vernon Heights elected their officers for the coming year. They were: President, John Bush; Vice President, Mary Titsworth; Secretary, Ana Beth Pohler; Treasurer, Merritt Marshall; Mary Titsworth and John Bush were appointed Quiver Representatives. Helen Mayer and Charles Evans were elected cheer leaders.

The annual school play, a comedy drama, in three acts, entitled "A Kentucky Belle," was given on the 12th and 13th of February. The principal characters were: Ruth Guthery, Mary Titsworth, Ana Beth Pohler, Gay Kellogg, John Bush, George Stafford, Darrol Walker and Walter Hittenrauch. The play which was coached by Miss Rhea King, and Mr. Wilson Dumble, was termed a great success.

Central Freshmen Class History

The Central Junior High School is ending one of its most successful years in the history of the school under the Principalship of W. C. Selanders. Through the leadership of the class officers, Harold Waddell as President, Samuel Murphy as Vice President, Roberta Roberts as Secretary and Treasurer, and hearty co-operation of the entire student body a splendid standard of loyal school spirit has been maintained. The good work of Cleo Creekbaum and Bryan Cross as Cheer Leaders has greatly helped.

The school is exceptionally proud of its two basket ball teams. The Central team, captain by Harold Secrest, won distinctive honors wherever it played in the city and county, as did the Midget team, captained by Edward Sawyer, all the members being in the one hundred pound class.

During the last week of school a class picnic was held, and when the final day of the school year arrived one of the largest and best classes ever entering Harding High left the school doors.

Athletics

THE old military road ran through Marion following the general direction of Delaware Avenue. In the War of 1812 General William Henry Harrison traveled along this road with his troops and one cannon was lost in the swale near "Jacob's Well." It was a very difficult march in the middle of December, as there had been a deep snow after a general thaw. The same trait which made these troops move steadfastly onward despite such odds, is evidenced by the athletic teams of Harding High School.

DOROTHY BOYER

"Come on, Harding, let's yell."

The voice of our cheer leader thrills us and the students of Harding High respond to the graceful motions of the leader, who is none other than Dorothy Boyer.

Harding High will miss her next year, but graduation claims her.

Athletic Review

More and more the value of physical fitness is being recognized by the school, and a certain amount of athletic activities are required for graduation, such as track, tennis, football, baseball and basket ball.

No better training can be received than that which comes from competitive sports. Both mental and physical co-ordination must be possessed before they can best be performed. Discipline and self control are the big things that an athlete gets from meeting and striving against fellow-beings.

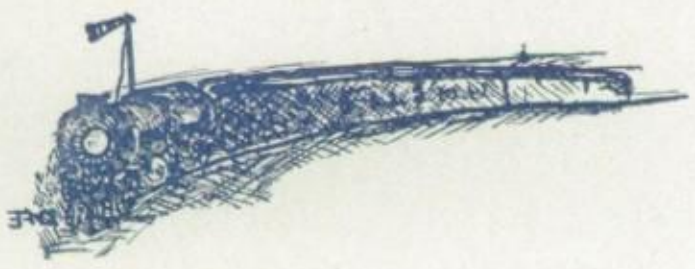
This year the chances for an athletic career were varied and plentiful. Besides the regular varsity squads in track, football, tennis and basket ball, there was interclass basket ball and baseball. The bi-weekly gym classes were well filled all year.

Because of the lack of a good track and athletic field, we did not do anything in track until last year and this year we did not have any runners, but in the shot, discus and javelin throws we ranked first class.

Last year the student body backed their teams to the limit. Whether winning or losing, Harding had a crowd of rooters as big as her opponents. Only an athlete can tell what a cheering effect it is to know that one's friends are looking and cheering him on.

EDWIN H. SHADE

Who's the Secretary Mellon of H. H. S.? Who's the gentleman who takes care of the money end of every enterprise around the school? Mr. Shade, our diminutive little 5 feet 6 inches of business ability has looked after the capital of events from the football games to the gym exhibition. He it is who has made athletics around H. H. S. a paying proposition. He spends his spare time coaching our Tennis team.



Harding Band

With Mr. C. W. Alspach as director, the Harding High School Band of 1925 had a very successful season.

During the football season the band was out in full dress helping to win. They journeyed to Mansfield and Delaware to help the team.

After the first basket ball game they were out with plenty of pep. On March 14th the Band furnished the music for the tournamnt at Delaware.

April 16th and 17th the Band gave a concert. which was very successful.

CAPTAIN COBB

As for the captain, little need be said other than that he is a real leader of men and a player who understands the wielding of the pigskin from A to Z. When it came to punting the pill "Cobby" was always ready with an over anxious leg. We are sorry that graduation must come to a person after three years of successful strife on the gridiron.

PAUL SPROUT

Although Paul Sprout is not a giant in size, he is not in the least handicapped when it comes to tackling gigantic tasks. This season's football team was one of these momentous tasks.

Paul Sprout, better known as "Coach" or "Sprouty" has been with us at Harding High for two years, coming fresh from Otterbein with a knowledge unexcelled in football tactics. During that time he has been a real fellow, a quality essential in a good coach.

The Football Season

In spite of the fact that we won only two of the games on our schedule, the season was a success from several viewpoints.

The crowd of rooters, who followed the team when abroad and packed the sidelines at home, was a true example of the fight and spirit of the school body.

Never did a team fight harder. With the team's weight, good coaching, and speed they should have "wiped them from the map." But alas! We lacked experience. Four letter men were all that returned from the year before, and the balance of the squad were green men.

The two games we did win, gave us third place in the league, with Galion first and Delaware second. This year, though, we scheduled games with non-league teams, which were as tough, if not tougher, than some of the league squads.

The biggest disappointment of the whole season came when Galion swamped us. For the last several years "Beat Galion" was the slogan and the greatest ambition of our gridiron fans and warriors!

Clean play and sportsmanship was manifest throughout the entire season and Harding's reputation for turning out a squad of fighting sports is known all over the State.

ALSTON MORRISON

Little credit is given to the manager of a football team for the time and hard work he willlingly gives. "Austy" as a manager was a conscientious hard worker. Nothing was ever too hard or too much trouble for him to do. The players had a great deal of confidence in "Austy" and many favors were their reward. "Austy" because of his small stature, was unable to work for his letter as a player, but was determined to do his part toward developing a fighting eleven.

KENNETH KUNKLER

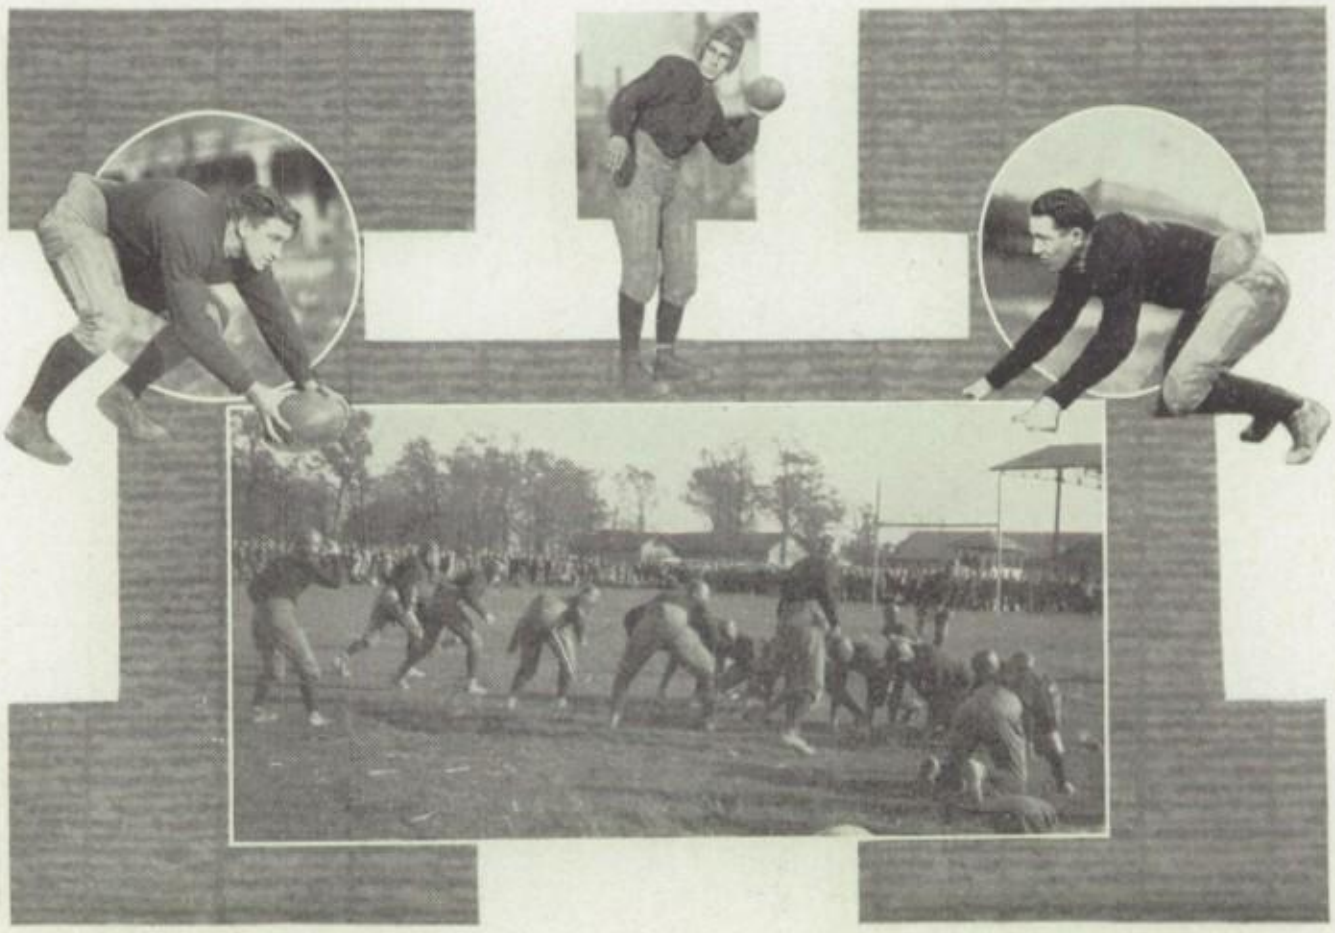
Two years at varsity end is the record of this lanky six footer (six four to be exact): an ability to make tackles even when two or three of the opposing players were lying on him made it almost impossible to gain around his defensive wing. Handicapped nearly all season by a wrenched back, he did all that was necessary in spite of it. Thanks to his training in basket ball "Kayo" was right there when it came to hooking in the passes. We'll certainly have to look a long time before we find a man to fill his berth next year.

JOHN O'CONNELL

Like a meteor "Red" flashed across Harding's football sky, but instead of dying out in the distance, after a few brief flashes, he stayed to fill the niche which fate prepared. Sounds like a lot o' bunk; but honestly, though, "Red" could bark the signals and cuss the backfield like a veteran. A consistent ground gainer too, "Red" used the ends or bucked the middle with gains every time.

NICK BADER

Nick Bader is one of Harding High's Sophomores with plenty of ability as a quarterback. He did not land a regular place on the team, but he will be back next year with a bigger determination to get his place on that eleven. Nick is one of the smallest men on the team, but he makes up for his weight in fight. He has two more years in which to win football fame.



GEORGE JONSSON

George Jonsson, captain-elect, is one of the scrappiest men Harding ever turned out. George played fullback, tackle and end, and filled any one of these positions to the highest degree. George will always be remembered by the way he was capable of backing up the line and could always be relied upon for any task set before him.

REX MILLER

Rex Miller was a Junior of about 220 pounds of dressed beef, big enough to clog up a hole in any football line. Rex played his first year as a regular center and proved himself worthy to wear the coveted Harding H. We are glad to be able to say that Rex will have one more year to demonstrate his wares.

ASA MYLES

Asa Myles, like Doubly, played his first year in the guard position and was another player full of determination to fill his place to the best of them, his weight was the only handicap which kept him from holding a regular berth on the team. Asa is another who will don cap and gown this spring.

JAMES McWHORTER

Although it was his first year at football, nevertheless "Jay" joined repute as a live bucker "par excellence." A true example of an all around football player, his speed and brain work would have been an aid to the best of squads. He must have been born with a football in his hand, because it was just natural for him to pick his hole and plunge the line. The best part of it is, that he'll be with us next year.

JACK DOUBLY

Jack Doubly played his first year at guard and was capable of making a tough game for his opponents on the other side of the line. Jack is one who will fight till he drops, and this is the characteristic that makes a good football player. We are glad to be able to place his name on the list of those who will be with us next year to "Beat Galion."

JACK HOUGHTON

This was "Jack's" second year on the varsity and he displayed the same fightin' spirit that made him famous the previous year. "Tiny" could take the largest of them out in a jiffy, and then go on through after secondary defense. When Jack assumed his fighting attitude, something strange was bound to happen. Yes, sir; old man Mars himself might envy him!

CARROL BORN

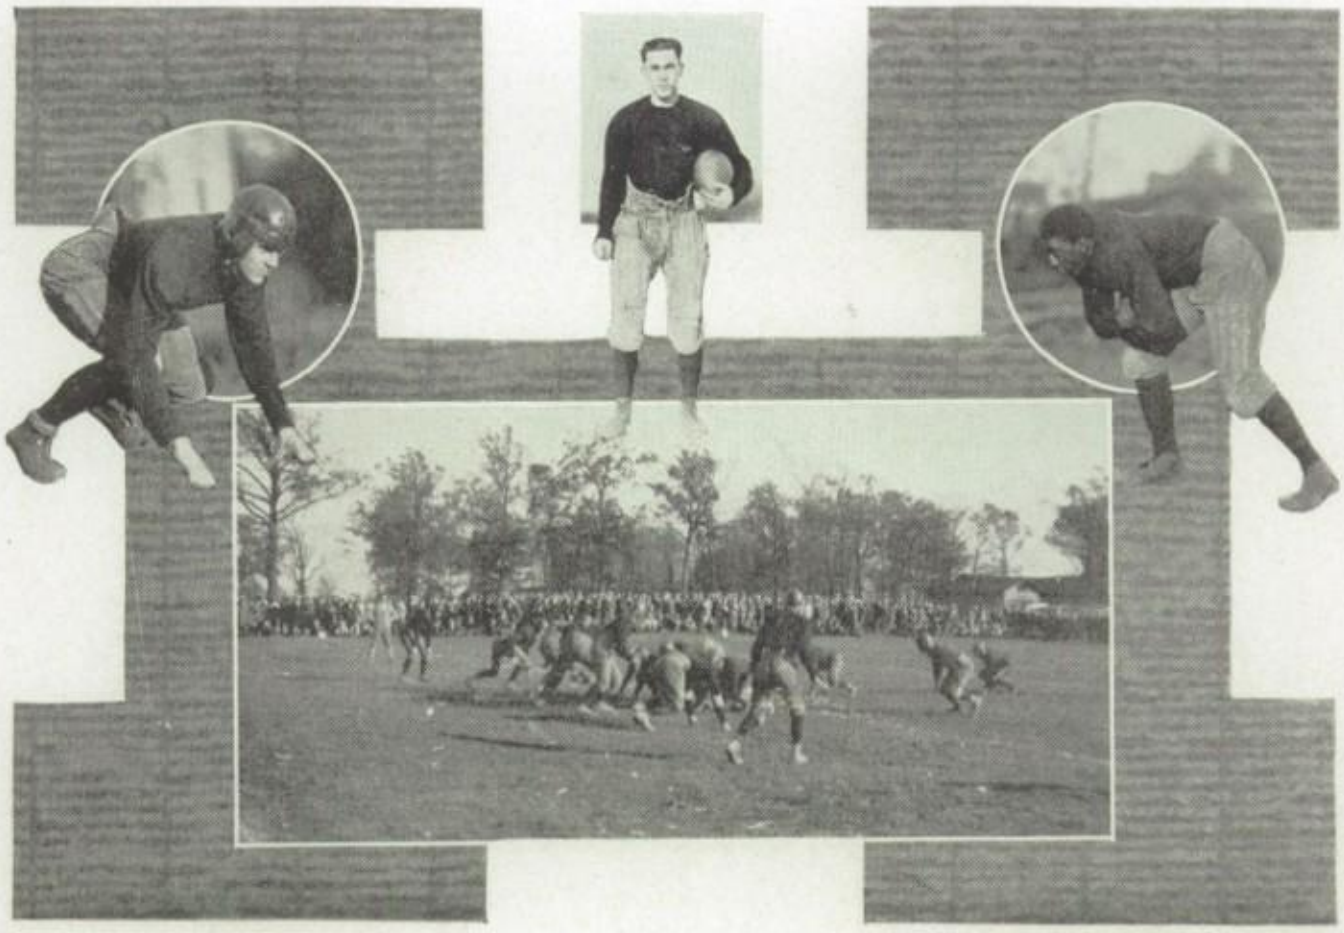
Born was the mainstay of the subs this year. Without him the first string would have had a hard time of it. In the offense the man who tackled him didn't forget it in a hurry. Only lack of experience kept him from moving into the regulars. If work and fight have anything to do with it "Borney" will make a name for himself in the next two years.

GEORGE DAY

Coming to Harding in his Senior year after chasing a pigskin around at Cleveland Heights. George at once showed his ability to fill a berth on the red and black squad. Not so flashy, but a steady, hard hitting terror to his opponent on defense, and in blocking he cleared a path for the backfield whenever the old signal sounded.

RAYMOND JENNINGS

'Nother Sophomore was "Jenx." At the first of the year the only thing he knew about football was that a pigskin had a bladder However he was a big stew (180 stripped), so coach started to feed him to the cleats. They didn't get to practice on him very long, though; he developed into an A number 1 lineman, with a punch like a battering ram and an ability to open holes that would make a tractor blush. We'll hear more about him next year.



EDWIN MERCHANT

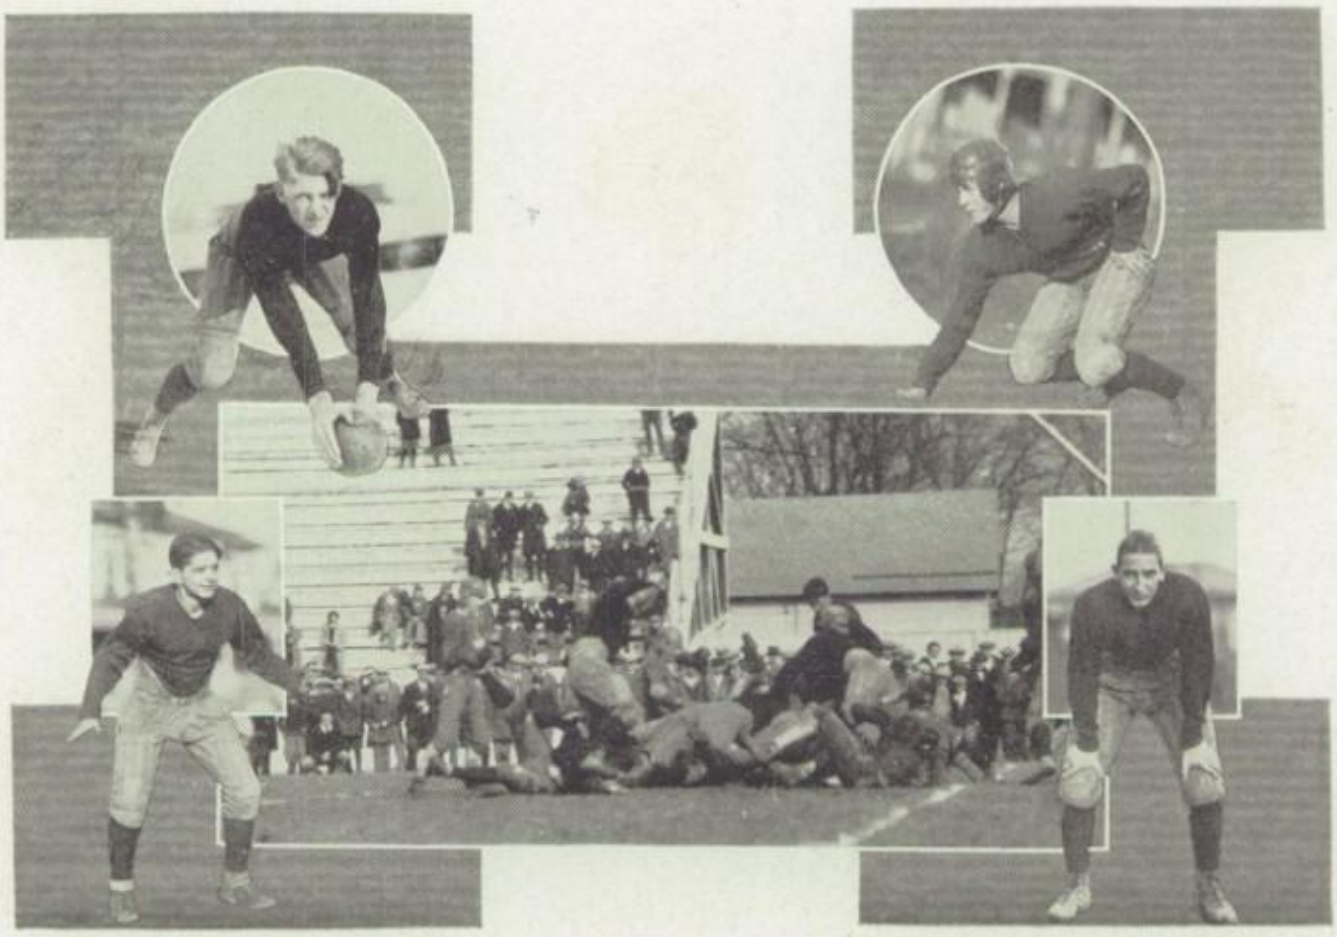
One of the four letter men back from the previous year, Merchant won additional laurels for his playing this year. His long suit is speed, but he was right there on the bucks, too. "Eddy" being of a rather small build, always played in the backfield, and once he got a broken field ahead of him—well, it is sufficient to say that he was one of the most consistent ground gainers on the squad. Yep—cap and gown. Sorry!

FRANK DRAKE

Without such linemen as Drake to open holes for them the backfield would have had a sorry time. As for the defensive—well, he just couldn't be moved. Although he was another first year man, yet it was his last with the varsity. Fight should have been his given name, but instead they named him "Frank." It will take a good man to fill his shoes next fall.

CLARENCE MENDENHALL

"Mendy" is one of the finest backs that ever donned a red and black jersey, and little need be said of his ability to plunge through that line for the needed count. "Mendy" has played a year at end and two years as fullback, pulling down a position on the big conference team each year from the time he was a Sophomore. We are sorry to say that Mendenhall will not return next year.



FRANCIS McELROY

Francis McElroy is another of our Sophomores. Although he did not play as a regular, he filled his place at center like a veteran. Since this is Mack's first year at the big game, and he has two more years for improvement, we expect a lot of him in his football days yet to come.

THEODORE CUNNINGHAM

Ted Cunningham was one of our Juniors who played a flashy game as quarterback. Although this was his first year, he filled his position like a veteran, never missing an opportunity to add a few yards. Fast, brainy and clever was "Ted," and he will be a pillar of strength to the 1925 team.

BURDETTE STRASBURG

Another beefy lineman was "Soup," Kunkler's running mate. Although it was his first year at football, he plugged along like an old hand. He looked as if he were built for service and not for speed, but he stepped out under the punts and passes with the best of them. It is pleasant to know that cap and gown is a year off for "Soup," and that he comes back next year to help wipe out a few old scores.

DONALD MIDLAM

Don Midlam, one of Harding's most consistent gridders, deserves mention for having more grit than any halfback of his size who ever appeared on Harding's gridiron. Midlam was unable to play in all the games on account of injuries, and yet he needed but one chance to show what he could do. "Don" will be with us next year, and great things are expected of him.

CAPTAIN KUNKLER

As a real captain should be, "Kayo" was the very backbone and leader of his mates. No story writer ever created a captain with more ability than our Kunkler. He couldn't have been better if he had been grown especially to play basket ball and nothing else. Long, lean, and lanky, he was a terror to the team who possessed a stubby pair of guardsmen.

GEORGE HUBBARD

Few people are endowed with the power to make two places famous at a time as "Mother" Hubbard. When at Wesleyan he made the quintet and helped to make that team famous. At Harding High he coached the team to North Central High School League championship and to tournament fame. "Mother" believes in luck; the harder he and the team work, the more luck they have.

For the second time Coach Hubbard has put a winning team on the floor in this great sport, and credit for most all victories belong to him.

Basket Ball Season

"A complete success," is all that can be said of the 1925 basket ball season. It might have been a little more complete, but it was very gratifying to us.

Although we did not get to go to Columbus and take part in the state tournament as we did last year, we did win the championship of our own little league, and that is something which hasn't happened for several years.

Starting out the season with a schedule which the most conservative admitted was a little hard, the Red and Black squad got down to business at the very start.

Long before the season started, the squad was in the gym practicing. Night after night they were down there passing, shooting, and dribbling. Kunkler, Geissler, and Bartram, back from the former season, soon "hit their stride" and helped the less experienced men to learn how league basket ball is played.

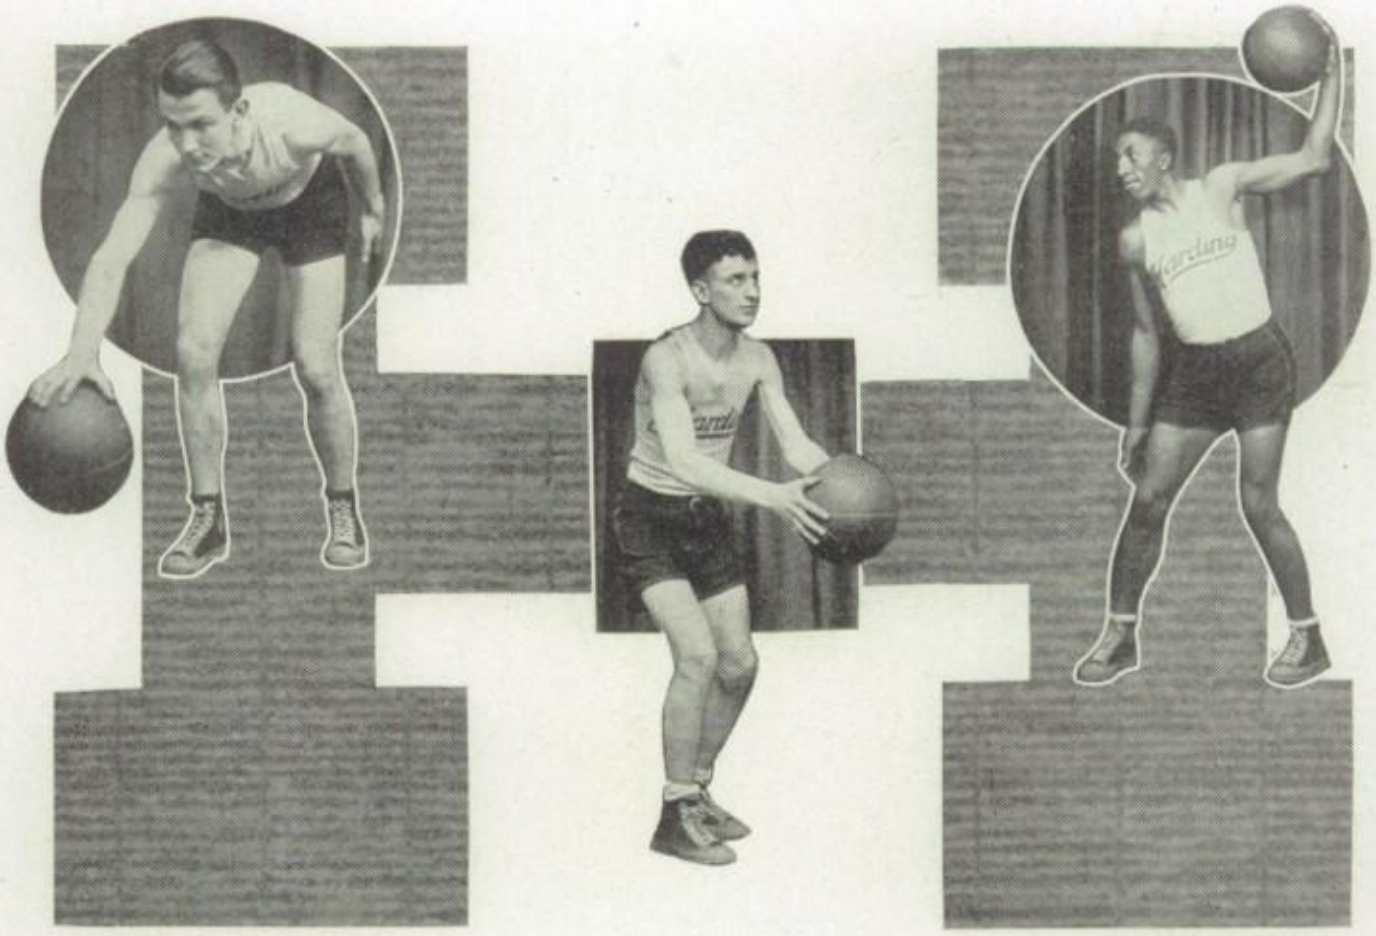
Exact figures show that we won ten out of thirteen games payed. We lost to Bucyrus, East High of Columbus, and Springfield.

But after all is said and done, the real credit for such a successful season reverts to the tall, thin, good looking young fellow whom we all know as "Mother." For further particulars we refer you to the writing under the picture labeled "Coach George B. Hubbard."

WALTER SAGE

"Hey, Sagey," was the cry which rushed out and greeted one anytime he happened to open the locker room door.

The aforesaid Sage, his parents named him Walter, was a sort of foster mother to our noble basketeers. He wielded the iodine and "Sloane's," wrapped up the floor burns, et cetera. But his big, broad smile was always present and came to be a fixed asset in Harding's basket ball world.



HARROD GEISSLER

"Geiss," captain-elect for 1926, finished his second season at left forward. He, without doubt, had the best eye for basket shooting on the squad. Besides being high score man on Harding's squad, it was his brainy giving of signals that won Harding's North Central championship. At passing, dribbling and head work "Goose" is unexcelled. Great things are expected from him next year, as he pilots Harding's cage crew through his third season.

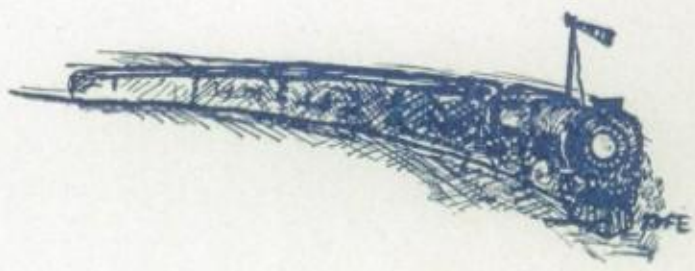
CLARENCE MENDENHALL

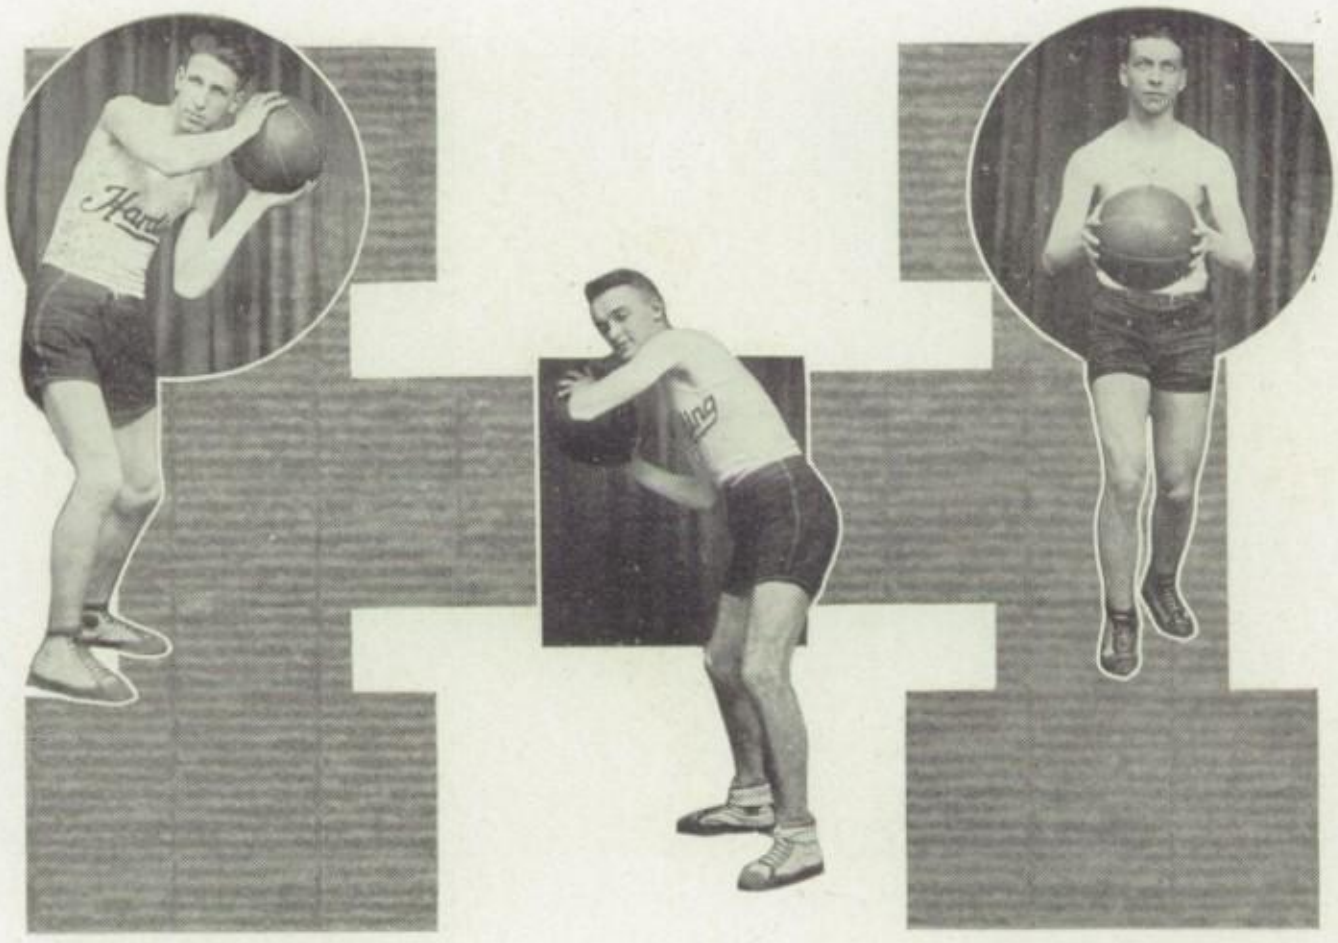
Little need be said of "Mendy's" ability to handle that basket ball in a manner of high credit to anyone.

He is Bartram's running mate and another guard who could always be relied upon for his contribution to a winning score. "Mendy" was first choice as guard on the mythical all-conference league team, and was also named all district guard at the Delaware tournament.

ALBERT LINSCOTT

If you were to see a list of the most brilliant of Harding High's basket ball players, from long ago until the present, the name of Albert Linscott would be well near the top. For "Al" is the ideal forward, always cool, and a dreamer for finding that basket when a point is most needed. We know that "Al" and his running mate "Goose" will make a fine combination next year for another championship team.





GEORGE JONNSON

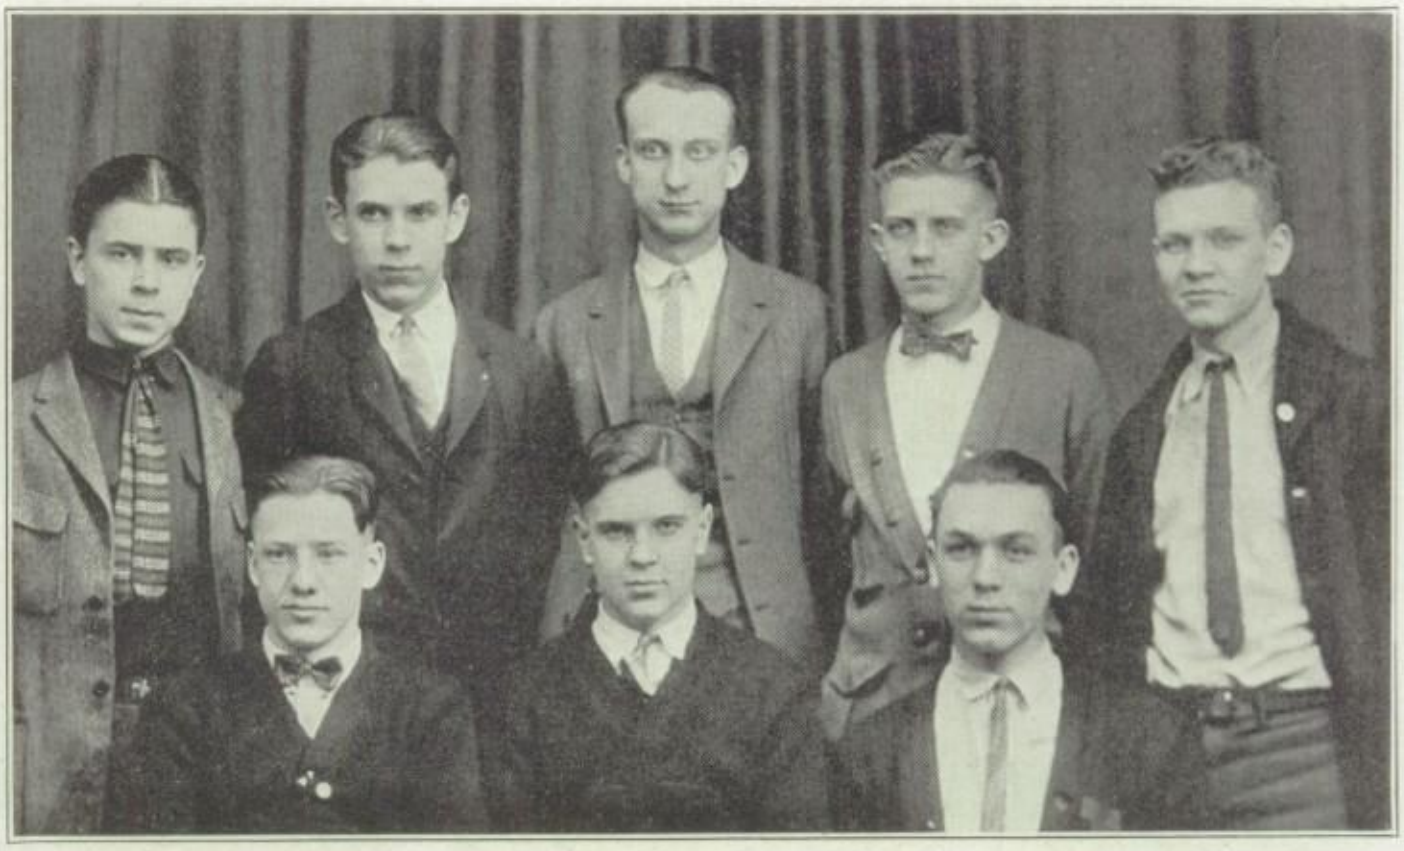
George made his debut in basket ball this year, and play he did. Dribbling through him was next to impossible. When Bartram or Mendy were taken out Jonnson was the man to fill the vacancy, and the Harding machine ran just as smoothly as ever. George has another year to show his style.

JOHN KEY

John was general utility man his first season on the varsity. He had a fine ability to drop them in from any possible place and his work at both forward and guard positions deserve the best praise. Although John did not always start the game, he was sure to be in at the finish. Next year playing with "Al" and "Geiss" he will do his bit to put Harding's basket ball team on the map.

JOHN BARTRAM

"Johnnie" the short right guard on Harding's championship team, always delivered the goods. This season was his second, and sad to say, his last, for he graduates. When it came to blocking shots and outwitting the opposing forwards John deserves first prize. He, playing running guard, chased the rest of the squad down the floor and his shots from the region of the foul line have helped put many games on the winning side of the ledger.



Senior Basket Ball

The Senior Interclass Basket Ball team had a very successful season; winning the championship at the tournament held at Central Junior. Its members are: Frank Drake, Ralph Moore, Edwin Merchant, Warren Ballentine, Fred Hunter, Voman Felt, Marion Chenoweth and Walter Sage.

SENIORS CHAMPIONS

JUNIOR BASKET BALL

With Harold Fetter as captain, the Junior Basket Ball team passed a very good season, reaching the finals in the tournament. The team is composed of: Harold Fetter, John Rife, Thorley Sargent, Charles Barton, Carl Secrest, Ted Cunningham, Rex Miller and Robert Conley.

SOPHOMORE BASKET BALL

Sophomores this year had an exceptionally good team and was ably led by Charles Noyes. Early in the season it defeated the fast Senior team. Charles Noyes, Edwin Knight, Vaughn Schertzer, Joe Drake, Howard Cox, Marion Lewis, Herbert Willey, Carl Fogle, and Ben Gilmore, are the members.

CENTRAL JUNIOR BASKET BALL

Central Junior High Basket Ball team won 16 out of 21 games, piling up 428 points to 300 by its opponents. Composing the squad are: Walter Snyder, Dudley Chase, Harold Secrist, Orville Garrett, Harold Jennings, Donald Cram, and John Gillis.

VERNON HEIGHTS BASKET BALL

Although small compared to their opponents, the Vernon Heights Basket Ball team had a fairly good season. Charles Kramer was captain, with George Stafford, Eugene Parlette, Harry Corbin, Charles Evans, Myron Gibson and Francis Blake, composing the squad.

Activities

EARLY travel through Marion was by way of stage coach. Charles Dickens, the English novelist, once made a journey from Columbus to Upper Sandusky over this route. For years after the coming of the steam engine the Erie Railroad had no better accommodation for travelers than the antiquated private car of "Jim" Fisk. Today Marion has excellent railroad facilities and as the industries of the city depend upon this activity, so the life at Harding High centers about its various clubs and organizations.

H. H. S. SQUAD WINS AT TOURNAMENT

DEFEATS FAST CAGE FIVE FROM CIRCLEVILLE, 14-10

Harding's Steady Playing Was Too Much For Circleville's Cagers in First Round

Rooting whenever they could but chiefly playing a defensive game, Harding H. eliminated their first opponent, Circleville, 14-14, in the Central Ohio district tournament.

Although the Circleville scrappers fought hard their playing was too streaky to withstand the steady onslaughter of the Harding men.

Edwards gym was nearly filled to its capacity with the spectators, more than half of whom were Marion supporters, and many of who weren't from Marion were cheering the Red and Black team.

The last half of the game was a fine sample of defensive playing on Harding's part.

Mendenhall played his usual stellar game for Harding. Lemasters showed up well at forward too. He was high scorer man for the H. H. S. squad. The lineups:

ROY D. MOORE TALKS TO PRESS CLUB WEDNESDAY

Roy D. Moore, managing editor of The Marion Star addressed the Press Club last Wednesday morning, third period. Mr. Moore's talk was very informal and during the course of it he mentioned many phases of newspaper work as well as some of his personal newspaper experiences.

"A newspaper must please its patrons. It must give them what they want. No paper can exist for very long without satisfying its readers' needs and desires". This, he insisted, was the first rule of newspaper law.

Mr. Moore then told how many reporters have a habit of "dressing a story up", putting imaginary touches to the facts.

Among other things, he emphasized the necessity of having regard for people's feelings, of making news stories interesting and true to facts, and of being fair.

STUDENTS HAVE BAD ACCIDENT

TOURNAMENT SIDELIGHTS

Delaware upset all the dope in the first round by Knocking off Newark. While of Columbus Central was presented a medal for being high score man of all the Columbus schools.

Harding was about the only team which used the five man defense.

Perhaps the most unexpected victory was the defeat of South by North. South held the championship of all the Columbus schools.

The following is a list of the games played the first round:

Newark 28, Delaware 17.

Columbus Central 23, Wilmerville 14.

Columbus North 18, Hamilton 8.

Lancaster 31, Columbus South 28.

HARDING 14, Circleville 10.

St. Mary's 31, Columbus West 23.

Mt. Vernon 7, Columbus East 23.

The games on the second round were:

Delaware 7, Columbus Central 20.

Col. North 18, Col. South 8.

HARDING 25, Columbus West 16.

Columbus East 34, Bexley 9.

Harding, Columbus East, North and Central will play in semi-finals.

HARDING HIGH PURCHASES TWO PRINTING PRESSES

The delightful smell of fresh printers ink will soon attract the aspiring pressman to Harding High to the shop room, for two presses were recently purchased from Francis C. Green, of Bucyrus, Ohio, a pressman on the Bucyrus daily paper.

One Chandler and Price press with a letter head 8½x12 inches, and a larger Peerless job press, 14x22 inches will make it possible for the Quiver to have its own characteristic letterheads.

The presses include a 22 inch paper cutter, one Boston stapler, one perforator, 300 pounds of type, 40 trays for print, a supply of printer's ink and a gasoline engine. The outfit is valued at approximately $1,000.

Mr. Ricker is now arranging the machinery and type and soon programs, cuts, etc., will be turned out by Harding's own press corp.

M. U. F. CAMPAIGN NOW BEING HELD

NICKS COLUMBUS WEST HIGH IN SECOND ROUND

Harding Triumphs Again as She Walloped the Five From Capitol City 25-16.

Harding triumphed a second time when she walloped West Hi, Columbus, by a score of 25-16. This game, played Saturday, was her second step in the Central Ohio District tournament. It places her in the semi-finals.

Backed by about 250 Harding rooters the Red and Black squad took the lead in the very beginning and held it throughout the entire game. Playing a fast offensive, point making game, directly opposite from her style the previous day, showed why she was rated as one of the four best at the tournament.

Unless some of her players are injured Harding will have as good a chance at the big honor as any of the remaining contestants.

Floris guard was the main stay of the West squad, playing a stellar role throughout. The

The Quiver

The Staff attempted a new experiment this year, that of issuing a Quiver Junior each week, consisting of five columns to a page. It proved to be a great success, judging by the enthusiasm shown by the readers and the increase in the number of subscribers. A prominent advantage of this system is that the news has not had time to "ferment" before it is written up.

Although the experiment called for additional work on the part of the Staff and Journalism class, there is not one but who regrets the laying down of the reins. To our successors, the class of '26, we bequeath the office on the fourth floor, with the privilege of inscribing their names alongside ours, and all they may obtain in excavating in the secret closets. We, the Staff, sincerely wish them every triumph in the shouldering of their new burdens.

HARDING DEBATE SQUAD

Debate

AFFIRMATIVE

The question for this year's debate was, "Resolved, that the United States should adopt a cabinet system of government."

There were two rounds of debate, since four other schools, Mansfield, Galion, Ashland, and Wooster, were added to the original triangle: Bucyrus, Harding, and Delaware.

The affirmative team composed of Clarence McElroy, Joseph Rinnert, James Williams, and Mary Alice Neal, Alternate, defeated Mansfield negative in the first round at Marion. The decision was two to one.

In the second round the affirmative team journeyed to Ashland where they suffered a three to nothing defeat at the hands of the Ashland negative.

As this team was composed of Sophomores and Juniors, next year ought to bring forensic success to Harding High.

NEGATIVE

The negative team was composed of Robert McDaniel, Sherman Haldeman, Charles McElroy, and Walter Sage, Alternate. They debated the same question of cabinet government.

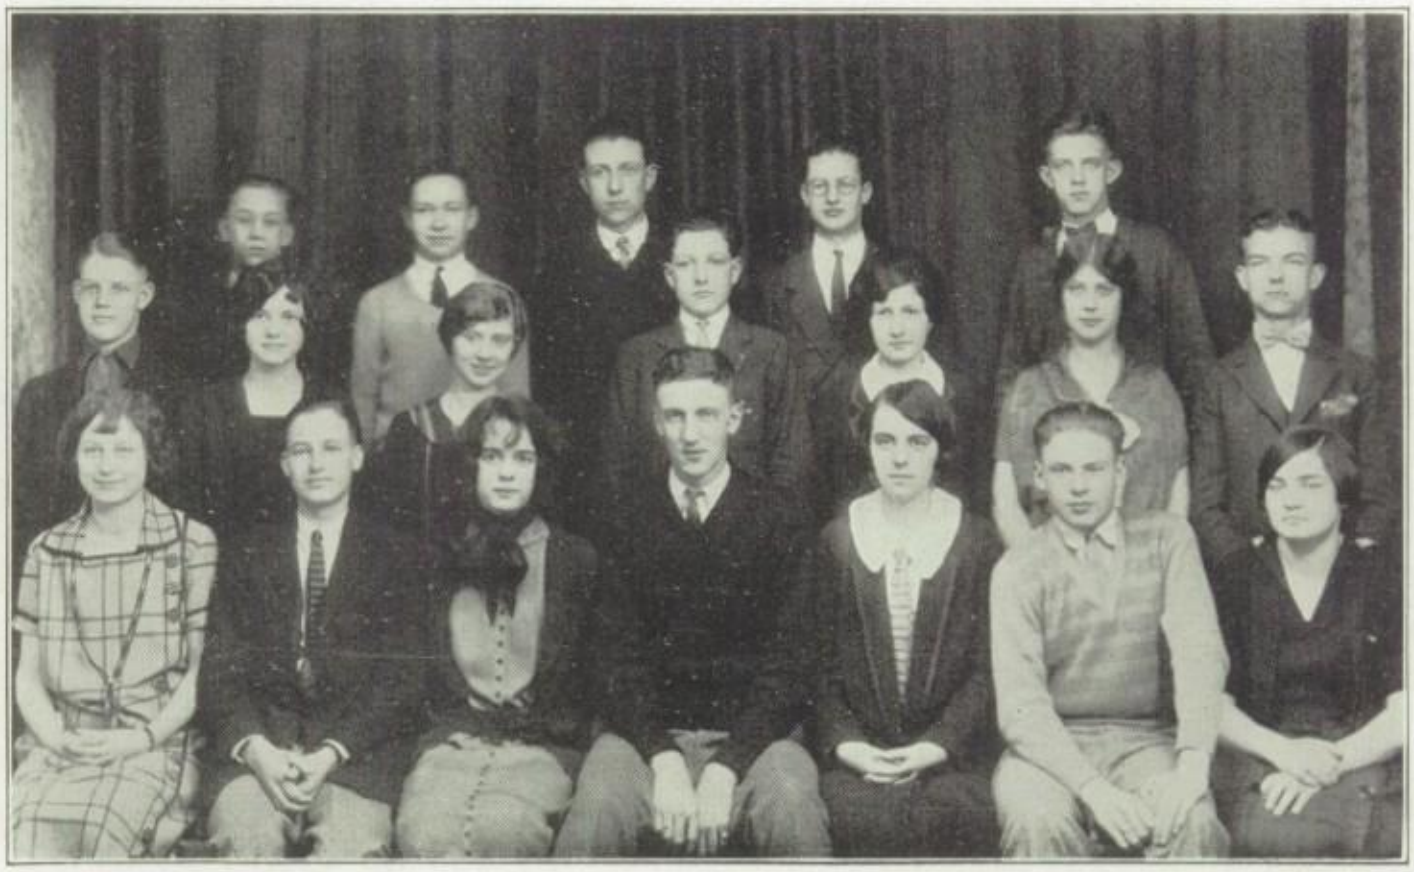
In the first round they lost to the Delaware affirmative, three to nothing, at Delaware.

In the second round, on the home platform, they succeeded in downing the Bucyrus affirmative in a two to one decision.

Both the affirmative and negative teams tied for honors this year, as each has a victory and defeat chalked up.

This team and the affirmative team, were both coached by Mr. LeRoy Wolfe.

None of this team will return to Harding High School next year, for they are Seniors and their high school careers have drawn to an end. However, many under classmen in the Public Speaking classes, aspirants this year, will fill their places on Harding's platform next year.



National Honor Society

Through the efforts of Mr. Marshall, Harding High School has been made a charter member of the National Honor Society.

Membership in this society is the highest honor that can be conferred upon any high school student, and each member is proud to wear the emblem of the society.

The students eligible for membership are selected by a faculty council of ten members, chosen by the members of the Senior class.

The four requirements for membership are: Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service. Ten per cent of the upper fourth of the Senior class are elected to membership.

The Faculty Council consists of: Mr. K. H. Marshall, Chairman; Mr. Sprout, Mr. Rieker, Mr. Shade, Mrs. Tilton, Miss Foreman, Miss Brown, Miss Fredericksen, Miss Turney, and Miss Rosebrook.

Press Club

The Press Club consists of the Quiver Staff and those students studying Journalism. This was the first year for the club and proved to be a successful one. It was organized for the purpose of improving the Quiver Annual and the Quiver Junior.

Besides the regular meetings, every two weeks, two parties were held during the year. These were a Valentine party, at the home of Charles Grace, and a May Day party, held in school gymnasium.

For the first time a Quiver Carnival was produced under the management of the club.

The club is sponsored by Miss Lucile Foreman.

Le Petit Salon

Le Petit Salon held its meetings once every month, either in the high school or in the homes of the members. With Nannette Newby as President; Kenneth Midlam, Vice President; Sylvia Scherff, Secretary; Mildred Biddle, Treasurer; Robert Smith, Reporter, and Ruby Craner as Pianist, the club was a decided success. A feature of each meeting was the presentation of a playlet given in French.

At Christmas each member received a present which in turn was given to the children at the Waddel Children's Home. In March a Mardi-Gras tea was held at the high school with the mothers of the members as guests. The main feature of this tea was the presentation of "Masterpieces of French Art" in living pictures.

A large part of the success of the club is due to the supervision and help of Miss Freer, the faculty advisor and sponsor.

Seventeen

"Seventeen" was presented November twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth at the Junior High Auditorium, by the Junior class of Harding High School. This is the first year the Junior class has presented a play.

A feature of the play was the scenery, constructed by the Manual Training class under the direction of Mr. Bier and Carl Secrest.

LITERARY

The Aenead

I tell of wars and a hero, decreed by the Fates as an exile,
Who first left the shores of Troy and came to the coast of Lavinia,
Much buffeted on land and sea because of the wrath of Juno.
He endured many things in war, while founding the destined city,
As he bore to Latium the gods. But later thru' these experiences
The city of Rome was built and the Latin race was established.
In days of old stood Carthage (the Tyrian farmers possessed it),
'Twas facing Italian lands the distant mouth of the Tiber.
Though cruel in the pursuits of war, it abounded in wealth and riches;
And here was the chariot of Juno for she loved and cherished the city,
Her desire was to be its queen, if at all the Fates would permit it,
But she heard that from Trojan blood a Latin people was springing
And which, at a future time, would destroy the Tyrian strongholds.
A race ruling far and wide and haughty in war and fighting,
Would spring from this Trojan tribe and come for the downfall of Libya,
For the ruin of its race and people, for thus the Fates had decreed it.

* * * * * * *

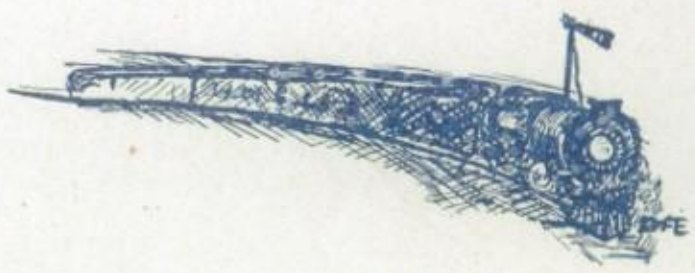
The Trojan city had fallen and the people of Priam, though guiltless,
Were destroyed, it seemed, by the gods, and the gorgeous Ilium or Troy,
The chosen city of Neptune, lay smouldering in its ashes.
Aeneas is forced by the gods to seek for lands long deserted,
He is doubtful as to the way in which the Fates may lead him
Or when it is granted to stop, but he gathers his men together.
Scarce had the summer begun when Aeneas's father, Anchises,
Now bade him to spread the sails and to leave his native country.
Weeping, he left the plains where once was the city of Ilium.
And he sailed o'er the sea, an exile, with friends and his son as companions.
Thus far o'er the sea he wandered with the higher gods and Penates.

* * * * * * *

* * * * * * *

At last he was borne on the deep near the neighboring Ceraunian mountains,
From whose peaks to coveted Italy his journey would be the shortest.
Meanwhile Old Sol, the sun-god, buries himself in the Ocean.
And all the mountains about are o'ershadowed with night and darkness.
They refreshed their bodies on land and cast lots for the choice of oarsmen,
Then lay in the embrace of Nature, with the lull of the waters near by;
Sleep then, as moist, gentle dew was shed on their weary bodies.
Scarce had the chariot of Night been drawn the half of its circuit,
As, drawn by the faithful Hours, it speeds across the heavens.
When quick, from his couch on the ground, rose up Palinurus, the pilot;
He lists to each airy gust, he examines each breeze and zephyr,
He notices each tiny star as it silently glides o'er the heavens,
The Hyades he sees in the sky, the Twin Bears, Areturus and Orion
Well armed with his belt of gold, which once he wore as a hunter.
He knew from the stars in the sky that tomorrow would be fair weather,
Then gives the sign from the stern and they move their camp from its setting.
They proceed to try their new course and the wings of the sails are unfolded.
Lo, blushing Aurora, the Dawn, is brightening o'er the horizon,
The stars are fleeing before her as the wanderers, joyful, distinguish
Fated peaks of low-lying Italy dimly outlined in the distance.
Aeneas's companion, Achates, raises first the cry of "Italy!"
While all the worn comrades about join in the glad shout of welcome.
Then on the stern of the ship stands the aged father Anchises;
He raises the wreath'd bowl that is filled almost to o'erflowing,
And lifts his voice to the gods in praise and worthy thanksgiving.

—ELETHA WHITEHEAD.



The Hero

The young man, he seemed hardly out of his teens, stood with his back to the wall, a table in front of him. A look of great decision was on his handsome but youthful countenance. One could not help taking a second glance at his trim and athletic figure. He was of medium height and appeared to be weaker than he really was, for underneath his fair skin the muscles rippled and played, whenever he made the slightest move of his graceful body.

He was prepared for the battle, which confronted him, by clean living and months of arduous toil of weight lifting.

A look of "do or die" determination flitted across his face, and with a gritting of his fine even teeth, he started to cut and slash. The foe were in solid lines, before him. Many had met their fate, but for every on which succumbed to his slashing blade and wrist of steel, a score seemed to take his place.

His knife played among them like a thing alive; a red mist swam before his eyes; tears gushed down over his cheeks for life was very dear to him, and for her sake he was doing this.

It was one of those scenes which one reads of, and sees in the cinema, but rarely sees in real life. It was his chance to prove his courage, that peerless heritage of his forefathers. The red, fighting blood coursed through his veins and he took up the struggle with renewed vigor.

The enemy pressed around him on all sides. If he wished to get out alive, he must get out of this room, and with this thought in mind he began to edge towards the door, his trusty blade creating havoc in their midst. The place reeked with their foul odor.

But alas, he couldn't make it; he was caught like a rat in a trap. But hark! he heard footsteps. Was it a friend or foe? Glancing toward the door he beheld the form of a beautiful girl. She held something in her hand, something glittered in the sunlight, a puff of powder, and "Dick" with a bound stopped peeling onions long enough to stoop and pick of "Gene Eva's" compact.

A Real Mother

There are many real mothers in the world, but there are very few, if any, just like this one I am going to describe. She had raised a family of three children, and all of them are fine children (she says so). This mother is a nurse of no mean ability. The doctor told her that her mother could only live two months. She kept her living and well for eight years. During the influenza epidemic the doctors gave up hope for both her husband and her daughter. She never gave up hope, and they are both living and well today.

This mother only reached the second year in High School when certain circumstances made her stop. These circumstances were nine children, of which she was the oldest. She realizes what she has missed and is seeing to it that all of her children shall have a college education. The oldest child seemed to realize her advantage, because she completed a four-year course in three and one-half years.

This mother is not satisfied by just giving her children an education, but she studies so that anything said by her children can be understood by her. She literally eats up knowledge. No obstacles are too difficult for her. No one in the family has a better vocabulary than she. This mother has learned more from the crossword puzzles than most students would learn in a year at school.

This mother is a born aristocrat. By an aristocrat I do not mean a wealthy, snobbish person, but a real aristocrat. She does not need a book of etiquette to tell her what is right or wrong. It seems natural for her to know the unwritten laws.

I do not say that if she had had the chance she might have become a great woman. I think that she is a great woman. Every one is put into this world to do some certain thing. If he can not find his designated place, he is a loss to the world. I think this mother found her place and served it well, and I am sure that she will be rewarded for it.

The Escape

On the steep side of a mountain,
Just above the roaring ocean,
Where the gulls soared high and calmly,
Was the humble, tumbling cabin
Of the aged shepherd, Daniel;
Who had lived through peace and wartime,
Through the famine and the fever,
With the patience of the savior.
Daniel lived there with his daughter,
Young and fair with tresses flowing,
Lived to trust in her redeemer,
And to make the mountain brighter
With her sparkling crowning glory
Shining in the mountain sunlight.
One clear morning on a June day
Landed on that rocky seashore
"Sea Hawk" with its sails a-flapping
In the strong New England east wind.
Daniel watched the crew alight there,
Called his daughter, Lily, to him,
Asked in trembling, nervous accents,
"Who comes here to take thee from me,
Darling of my heart and her's who
Lies o'er yonder in the cold ground."
Lily, reassuring answered,
"It is but our good friend Mathew."
Skipping gaily down the mountain,
Lily met the welcome caller,
Gave her cordial greeting to him,
When they drew up to the father
Mathew stepped into the foreground,
Spoke directly to old Daniel,
"Wonder thou why we have anchored?
I have come again to warn thee
Of the danger in the huge rock
That extends far up above thee.
Come away to safer regions."
Daniel's eyes gleamed in their sockets.
"What!" he cried in loud lamenting,
"Come thou here to take my flower
From her haunts unto thy mansion?
She would wilt within a fortnight
In thy prison walls of splendor."
"Hold!" cried Mathew growing angry,
"Last night's torrent rent its holding,
It will yield to one more windstorm,
And will crush thy precious flower."
"Go thy way from whence thou cameth.
God is our protecting savior;
He will keep us from all danger,"
Daniel finished with a prayer.
Mathew seized the frightened maiden,
Bore her down the pearly hillside
To his brig and faithful crewmen.
Daniel watched in wild amazement
As they sailed to unknown regions.
Night came with a raging tempest
And the rugged rock descend.
God leaned down from his gold mansion;
So it fell below the cabin,
Rolled down to the foaming ocean.
Day brought calmness to the ocean
Daniel wandered down the steep slope
To the rock that lost his Lily.
Lying on the shore were fragments—
Driftwood, sails and other ruins;
Near his feet a golden hair clasp.
Daniel took it from the wreckage,
Sighed and pressed it to his hurt heart,
Looked upon the slope and pondered,
"It was hers who lies up yonder
In the cold ground 'neath the tall grass.
May she rest in peace forever
With my darling flower, Lily.
I have kept my faith in Jesus,
I am still a mortal—waiting."

The Polished Boots

Old Dutch Henry ruled the extreme southern part of the South Seas, but made the Isle of Vesta his headquarters. Here he kept his store and trading post, and a small power boat; the latter, in order that he might move swiftly from one island to another buying pearls, copra, and other raw materials.

His word was law in those parts, and he ruled with an iron hand. So the morning he gave his two white overseers and a company of his blacks, guns and ammunition, they knew that in his cruel, shrewd brain he had planned a grim deed. This was true. They were to completely annihilate the Jew's Island, about half a day's voyage from Vesta.

This island was not in Old Dutch Henry's domain, but the Jews had been encroaching on his trade and Henry was no man to let this assault pass unnoticed.

The misty, morning sun disclosed a desolate scene. The charred and smoking hut grounds, with their silent air of desertion, showed that the blacks had apparently executed their orders to the last word. The trading post was entirely gone, but the two Jewish brothers had escaped in the gloom of the gathering dusk.

A year and a half of comparatively peaceful trading had passed, when a trivial incident occurred; a pair of Henry's hiking boots disappeared and then reappeared so highly polished that near objects were reflected in their glassy surface. Thinking that perhaps a crafty servant, wanting a day off, had overdone himself, Dutch had laughed and had waited expectantly for the request. It had been strange, but none came.

The first of the week, Henry had gone into the hills on a hunting trip. He was expected home Thursday afternoon; but when the blood-red sun sank, he had not yet appeared. His black boys started after him, fearing foul play, for Dutch was certainly not without his enemies. They found him, sprawling in a natural sleepy posture. His death was said to have been caused by heart failure.

However, this explanation did not satisfy my curiosity, and having examined everything but the boots, I at last turned to them for a clue, to what I mysteriously felt was not a natural death.

I picked up the left boot and minutely examined it. Nothing there. Then I took the right one. Oh! A slight tap and the heel lunged back revealing two sharp fish bones, which I carefully extracted.

Just as I thought! The tip of each was slightly stained blue. It was the deadly poison, cyanide of potassium, which applied to the tiniest abrasion of the skin immediately congeals the blood.

Kayo: "Your sister talks a great deal, doesn't she?"
Amy: "Yes, I think she must have been vaccinated with a phonograph needle."

Bill D.: "Isn't that grand?"
B. Hulse: "No; it looks like an upright to me."

The human system requires the product of the wheat berry in one form or another. This being a fact, it behooves us all to use extreme care in the selection of the products we individually like best. Without doubt, flour, as the direct result of crushing the wheat berry, and bread, as the indirect result of the same operation, takes precedence in its relation to the human family over all other products manufactured from wheat.

We all believe Ohio farms produce the Acme of Perfection in wheat of the SOFT RED WINTER VARIETY. If this Company didn't think so, we would grind other kinds. Since we grind nothing but the kind of wheat grown in Marion County, why shouldn't Marion County folks in general insist on the product of their own raising? Marion is the home of CLOVER LEAF, than which there is none better. Won't you, when ordering flour, say—

Two farmers, Si and Josh, met on a country road.

"Si," said Josh "my mule has got distemper. What did you give your mule when he had it?"

"Turpentine."

They met again about a week later.

"Say, Si, I gave my mule turpentine and it killed him. How did it affect yours?"

"Killed mine too."

Newspaper Supremacy

For forty-eight years the Marion Star has been serving the public as a daily newspaper.

Throughout that time its publishers have been striving toward that supremacy in all things that would tend to make the Star the dominating newspaper of the territory within its field.

At three o'clock in the morning a rather weary specimen of humanity reached a telephone and called the garage for aid.

"Hello; is this the garage?"

"Yes," said a sleepy voice at the other end.

"Well, I've just turned turtle."

"Say," answered the voice, "this is a garage, not the Zoo."

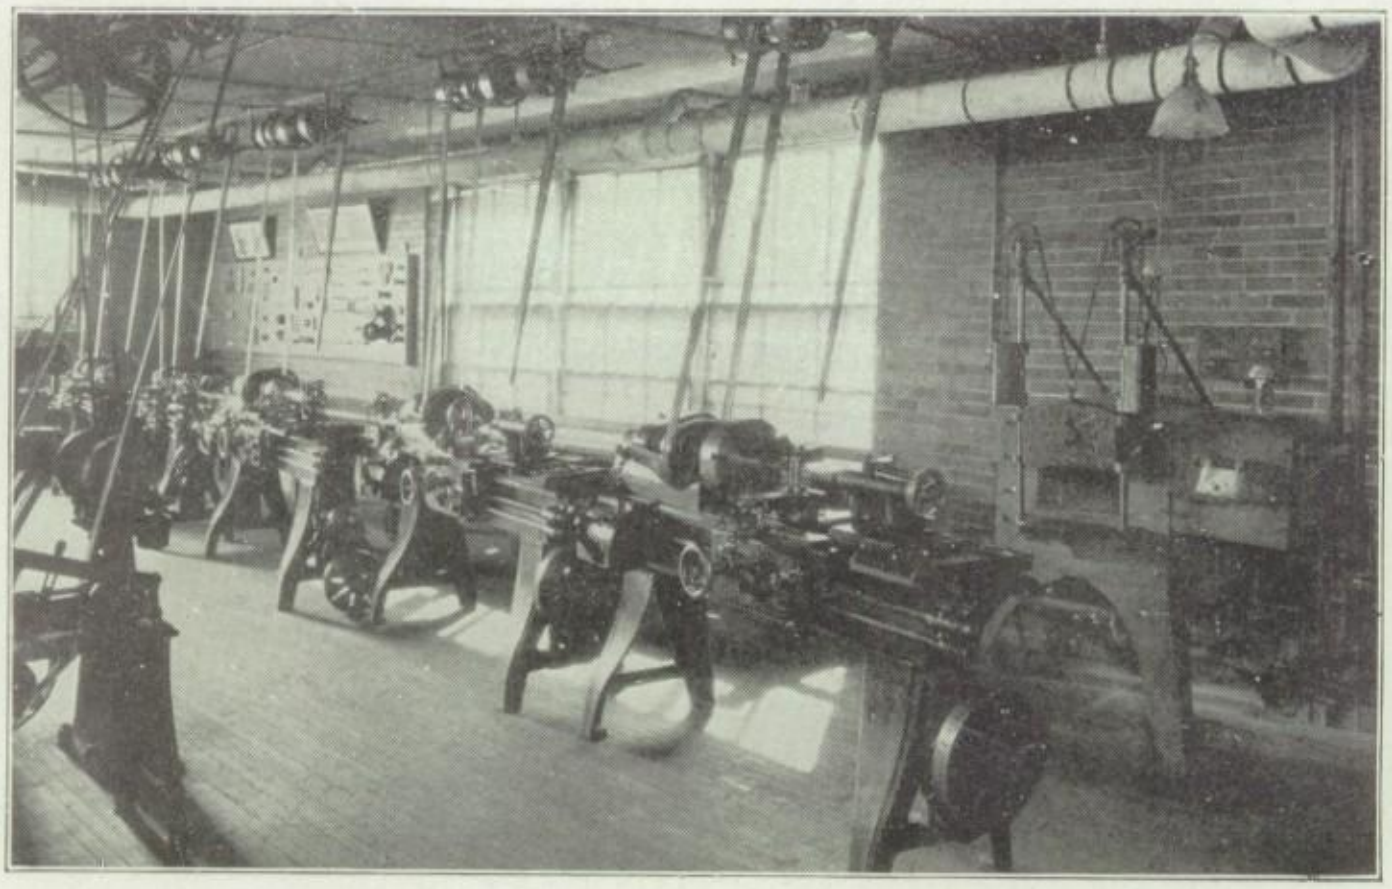
TABLE HINTS FOR FRESHMEN

1. Don't drink from the saucer: you can get more from a plate.
2. Select a dull knife to avoid cutting your lips.
3. When reaching for food, keep at least one foot on the floor.
4. Be very careful to keep in tune during the "soup course."



IN THE VOCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

Jokes

Bovie M.: "Let's go for a walk."
Dave M.: "How come?"
Bovie M.: "Doctor's orders—have to exercise with a dumbell every day."

"Do you want a room for 25 cents or 50 cents?"
"What's the difference?"
"Well, we put a rat trap in the 50 cent room."

Mother was entertaining a crowd of noted guests, when a patter of little feet were heard on the stairs.
Mother: "Listen; my little darlings are coming to give me their bedtime message."
Bobby: "Mother, there's a bedbug in Willie's bed."

"Bill" D.: "When your time comes, how would you like to die?"
"Hap" B.: "I certainly would like to get caught in a stampede of buffalo nickels."

Freshman: "Our Latin teacher must be pretty old."
Sophomore: "What makes you think that?"
Freshman: "She told the class she taught Caesar and Cicero for five years."

Mother: "Oliver, didn't I hear the clock strike two when you came in last night?"
Oliver B.: "You did. It started to strike eleven and I stopped it so it wouldn't wake you."

Breathes there a girl with soul so dead,
Who never to her beau hath said, "When do we eat?"

"Soup": "Did you ever meet a bobbed haired bandit?"
Geo. Day: "Meet one? Man, I take one out every night."

She was but a Freshman. "Oh, dear," she cried, "I simply can't adjust my curriculum."
"It doesn't matter; it doesn't show any," he reassured her, blushing.
And then they both talked rapidly about the decorations.

"I fell from the fifth floor."
"And didn't die?"
"Who told you?"

Miss Schwartz: "Do you know 'Poe's Raven?' "
Kayo: "No. What's he mad about?"

"Upon my word!" said the dictionary as the ink dripped through the leaves.
